CONTENTS

Part I  Overview and Contextualisation

1  Introduction 3

2  The Changing Era of Higher Education 23

Part II  Practice and Design

3  What Is Module Design? 43

4  The Role of a Module Designer 65

Part III  Real World Experiences—The Practice and Process of Module Design as an Experience

5  Theoretical Insights and Collecting the Data 87

6  The Experiences of Module Design in One UK University 105
7 The Practice and Process of Module Design as an Experience Part I (Pressures, Constraints and the Assessment) 121

8 The Practice and Process of Module Design as an Experience Part II (The Impact of Working Relationships on the Practice and Process of Design) 149

9 The Practice and Process of Module Design as an Experience Part III (Paperwork, Administration and Training) 177

10 Conclusion: A New Culture of Module Design? 207

Appendix A: The Questionnaire Survey 223

Appendix B: The Initial Themes Derived from the First Reading of the Data 229

Appendix C: Table of Working Themes and Sub-themes 233

Appendix D: Some Additional Tables of Survey Data 235

References 237

Index 239
Module Design in a Changing Era of Higher Education
Academic Identity, Cognitive Dissonance and Institutional Barriers
Binns, C.
2017, X, 242 p., Hardcover
ISBN: 978-1-137-55369-0
A product of Palgrave Macmillan UK