Contents

1 Introduction 1

Part I  Friedrich Nietzsche: Madness and the Limits of Becoming

2 Nietzsche and Autobiographical Philosophy 15

3 Nietzsche’s Intuitive Movement in a Labyrinth of Contradictions and Masks 49

4 Nietzsche and Madness 63

Part II  Georges Bataille: Madness and the ‘Ethics of Vulnerability’

5 Bataille and Autobiographical Philosophy 87

6 Heterogeneity, Inner Experience and the ‘Ethics of Vulnerability’ 105
7 Bataille and Madness

Part III Michel Foucault: Madness and Philosophical Incapacity

8 History of Madness: Is There Such a Thing as Madness?

9 Foucault and Autobiographical Philosophy

10 Foucault and Madness

Part IV Jacques Derrida: Philosophy Opens Up to Madness

11 The Debate: Derrida on Foucault via Descartes

12 Derrida and Madness

13 Derrida and Autobiographical Philosophy

Part V Responding to Madness: Autobiographical Philosophy

14 Post-Nietzschean Possibilities and Responsibilities

15 Being ‘in the Distance of Madness’

16 Conclusion

Appendix A

Appendix B

Appendix C

Bibliography

Index
Philosophizing Madness from Nietzsche to Derrida
Evangelou, A.
2017, IX, 286 p. 6 illus., Hardcover
ISBN: 978-3-319-57092-1