Dysphagia is a multidisciplinary journal devoted to swallowing and its disorders. The journal's purpose is to provide an international source of information to physicians and other health professionals interested in this emerging field. Its scope includes all aspects of normal and dysphagic ingestion involving the mouth, pharynx, and esophagus. Accordingly, the journal will draw on expertise from a variety of disciplines including gastroenterology, neurology, otolaryngology, radiology, dentistry, rehabilitation medicine, speech pathology, nursing, dietetics, medical administration, and the basic biomedical sciences. The journal is intended to contribute to the development of this field by fostering communication between interested professionals, by setting forth existing knowledge, and by stimulating further research. Submission of contributions that advance the understanding of normal swallowing as well as those related to dysphagia, its diagnosis, and its clinical management, is encouraged. Dysphagia has been organized in collaboration with leading medical specialists in this field.

The journal publishes original papers, case reports, technical and instrumental notes, letters to the Editor, and review articles. A separate section contains abstracts of selected papers from the current literature. Reviews of books or monographs and announcements about national or international associations and conferences related to ingestion and dysphagia are published as space is available. The journal assures expeditious review of submitted manuscripts and prompt notification of the authors. The Editors make every effort to have accepted papers published within 9 months of acceptance.

Cancellations are not accepted after the closing date for space reservations.
If an advertiser fails to provide new artwork for a particular issue by the printed deadline (or a pre-approved extension granted by the publisher), then the publisher will pick up the most recent artwork provided. If no artwork is on hand, then the advertiser will still be responsible for payments on space.

Acceptance Policy: The Publisher reserves the right to review and reject any advertising submitted to the journal which it deems as inappropriate for editorial content.

ONLINE ADVERTISEMENTS target the most active members of your target audience as they source information. Springer is a worldwide leader for providing dependable, essential e-information. Connect with your target audience with our online advertising options, or create a more robust impact with both print and online ads.

Our Advertising team focuses on two online advertising options:

Banner Ads - An embedded ad placed on our research site SpringerLink.com. Sized at 160x600, these ads are positioned on the top right of our web pages directly adjacent to our content listing. The new, wider skyscraper position will guarantee attention on your brand.

e-TOC Alert - An EXCLUSIVE right to advertise in our reader-subscribed email blast, on a per issue purchase basis. This alert details a summary of future content in the upcoming journal issue. Sized at 468x60, it is placed directly above the content listing in the email. These alerts have the highest click-through rates of all Springer e-products.
