A. Johnston

Irrepressible Truth

On Lacan’s ‘The Freudian Thing’

Series: The Palgrave Lacan Series

- Analyses Lacan’s article ‘The Freudian Thing’ which only appeared in the full English translation in 2006
- Offers insight into Lacan’s notoriously dense and intimidating work ‘Écrits’
- Situates “The Freudian Thing” within the broader sweep of Lacan’s intellectual project

This book offers readers a uniquely detailed engagement with the ideas of legendary French psychoanalyst Jacques Lacan. The Freudian Thing is one of Lacan’s most important texts, wherein he explains the significance and stakes of his “return to Freud” as a passionate defence of Freud’s disturbing, epoch-making discovery of the unconscious, against misrepresentations and criticisms of it. However, Lacan is characteristically cryptic in The Freudian Thing. The combination of his writing style and vast range of references renders much of his thinking inaccessible to all but a narrow circle of scholarly specialists. Johnston’s Irrepressible Truth opens up the universe of Lacanian psychoanalysis to much wider audiences by furnishing a sentence-by-sentence interpretive unpacking of this pivotal 1955 essay. In so doing, Johnston reveals the precision, rigor, and soundness of Lacan’s teachings.