International Journal of Hindu Studies
Editor-in-Chief: S. Mittal

- Emphasizes research offering cross-disciplinary relevance or new implications for the field
- Features comparative and theoretical articles spanning a broad range of disciplines in the humanities and social sciences
- Fosters new work in neglected areas and alternative perspectives in Hindu studies

The International Journal of Hindu Studies offers a scholarly exploration of topics in Hindu studies, fostering new work in neglected areas, alternative perspectives, and the exchange of information. The Journal supports critical inquiries, hermeneutical interpretive proposals, and historical investigations into all aspects of Hindu traditions.

Publishing articles that advance scholarship in all aspects of Hindu studies, the journal emphasizes areas of research that have cross-disciplinary relevance or set forth new implications for this emerging field. Comparative and theoretical articles span a broad range of disciplines in the humanities and social sciences.
