Asian Journal of Criminology

An Interdisciplinary Journal on Crime, Law and Deviance in Asia
Editor-in-Chief: J. Liu

► Advances the study of criminology and criminal justice in Asian contexts
► Promotes evidence-based public policy in crime prevention, and comparative studies on crime and criminal justice
► Presents research from a broad variety of methodological traditions
► Coverage spans criminology, criminal justice, law, sociology, psychology, forensic science, social work, urban studies and more

The Asian Journal of Criminology advances the study of criminology and criminal justice, promoting evidence-based public policy in crime prevention, and comparative studies on crime and criminal justice. The Journal provides a platform for discussion and exchange of ideas among criminologists, policymakers, and practitioners, by publishing papers relating to crime, crime prevention, criminal law, medico-legal topics and the administration of criminal justice in Asian countries. The focus is on theoretical and methodological papers with an emphasis on evidence-based, empirical research addressing crime in Asian contexts. It presents research from a broad variety of methodological traditions, including quantitative, qualitative, historical, and comparative methods. Its multi-disciplinary approach spans a range of disciplines, including criminology, criminal justice, law, sociology, psychology, forensic science, social work, urban studies, history, and geography.

On the homepage of Asian Journal of Criminology at springer.com you can

► Sign up for our Table of Contents Alerts
► Get to know the complete Editorial Board
► Find submission information