Jindal Global Law Review

Editor-in-Chief: C. Raj Kumar
Editor: V.H. Devaiah

- Aims to set apart from other Indian and foreign law reviews by focusing on articles that deal with significant legal developments at local or national level but are at the same time relevant within a globalized context
- Publishes articles that analyze legal developments from a wider inter-disciplinary perspective
- Theme based issues that deal with contemporary developments in law
- Publishes articles from leading scholars in the field
- Encourages and supports contributions from emerging scholars
- Is supported by an Editorial Board drawn from leading scholars in the world

Jindal Global Law Review (JGLR) has been readily embraced by academics and students all over the world due to its global outlook and theme based issues. JGLR is ranked as the No. 1 peer reviewed Indian law journal by Washington and Lee University, and is the first Indian Law Review to be indexed by Lexis Nexis legal database.

The journal lays emphasis on publishing works that are at the cutting edge of doctrinal, theoretical and empirical research. Each issue of JGLR, edited by subject-experts from the Jindal Global Law School faculty, is themed on a contemporary topic to rigorously explore its legal, political, socio economic and policy dimensions. Selection of the theme is entirely based on the key developments in a particular field of law with the aim of addressing critical issues. JGLR encourages scholars and researchers from disciplines other than the law to contribute to the journal.
