

Contents

Acknowledgments .....	v
1 Introduction: Evidence for Duverger’s Law from Four Countries .....	1
Bernard Grofman, Shaun Bowler, and André Blais
2 Voting Strategically in Canada and Britain .....	13
André Blais, Eugénie Dostie-Goulet, and Marc André Bodet
3 Neither Representative Nor Accountable: First-Past-the-Post in Britain .....	27
John Curtice
4 Strategic Voting in the USA .....	47
Barry C. Burden and Philip Edward Jones
5 Mechanical Effects of Duverger’s Law in the USA .....	65
Michael P. McDonald
6 Canada: The Puzzle of Local Three-Party Competition .....	83
Richard Johnston and Fred Cutler
7 Party Inflation in India: Why Has a Multiparty Format Prevailed in the National Party System? .....	97
Csaba Nikolenyi
8 Does the United Kingdom Obey Duverger’s Law? .....	115
Brian J. Gaines
9 The United States: A Case of Duvergerian Equilibrium .....	135
Shaun Bowler, Bernard Grofman, and André Blais

References .....	147
Index .....	159
About the Editors and Contributors .....	163

<http://www.springer.com/978-0-387-09719-0>

Duverger's Law of Plurality Voting

The Logic of Party Competition in Canada, India, the United Kingdom and the United States

Grofman, B.; Blais, A.; Bowler, S. (Eds.)

2009, VIII, 165 p., Hardcover

ISBN: 978-0-387-09719-0