Chapter 1 Overview of Food Emulsifiers
Gerard L. Hasenhuettl

1.1 Introduction
1.2 Emulsifiers as Food Additives
1.3 Emulsifier Structure
1.4 Surface Active Hydrocolloids
1.5 Emulsifier Functionality

Chapter 2 Synthesis and Commercial Preparation of Food Emulsifiers
Gerard L. Hasenhuettl

2.1 Functional Group Design Principles
2.2 Mono- and Diacylglycerols (Mono- and Diglycerides)
2.3 Propylene Glycol Esters of Fatty Acids
2.4 Polyglycerol Esters of Fatty Acids
2.5 Sorbitan Monostearate and Tristearate
2.6 Sucrose Esters
2.7 Sodium and Calcium Stearoyl Lactylate
2.8 Derivatives of Monoacylglycerols
2.9 Polyoxyethylene Derivatives
2.10 Modification of Naturally Occurring Species
2.11 Commercial Preparation of Food Surfactants

Chapter 3 Analysis of Food Emulsifiers
Gerard L. Hasenhuettl

3.1 Thin Layer and Column Chromatography
3.2 Wet Chemical Analysis
3.3 Measurement of Physical Properties
3.4 Instrumental Methods of Analysis
3.5 Setting Specifications

Chapter 8  Emulsifiers in Infant Nutritional Products

Séamus L. McSweeney

8.1 Introduction ..................................................................... 233
8.2 Types of Infant Nutritional Products ............................. 233
8.3 Emulsion Formation and Stabilisation ........................... 235
8.4 Emulsifying Ingredients in Infant Nutritional Products .......... 238
8.5 Stabilising Agents Used in Infant Nutritional Products .......... 241
8.6 Emulsifier Functionality in Infant Nutritional Products .......... 241
8.7 Summary ........................................................................ 255

Chapter 9  Applications of Emulsifiers in Baked Foods

Frank Orthoefer

9.1 Introduction .................................................................... 263
9.2 History of Bakery Emulsifiers ....................................... 263
9.3 Definition of Emulsifiers ............................................... 264
9.4 Emulsifier Function in Baked Goods ............................. 265
9.5 Role of the Shortening ................................................... 267
9.6 Role of the Emulsifier .................................................... 268
9.7 Emulsifier Interaction with Bakery Components .......... 272
9.8 Applications in Baked Goods ........................................ 276
9.9 Summary ........................................................................ 283

Chapter 10  Emulsifiers in Confectionery

Mark Weyland and Richard Hartel

10.1 Introduction ................................................................. 285
10.2 Emulsifiers in Chocolate and Compound Coatings ...................... 286
10.3 Anti-Bloom Agents in Chocolate and Compound Coatings .................. 295
10.4 Other Emulsifiers Used in Coatings .................................. 298
10.5 Emulsifiers in Non-Chocolate Confectionery ................. 299
10.6 Chewing Gum .............................................................. 300
10.7 Processing Aids ........................................................... 303
10.8 Summary ........................................................................ 304
Chapter 11  Margarines and Spreads ........................................... 307
Niall Young and Paul Wassell
  11.1 Introduction................................................................. 307
  11.2 The Rise of Margarine.................................................... 308
  11.3 Terms and Terminology .................................................... 309
  11.4 Building Blocks and Structure ......................................... 310
  11.5 Emulsifiers ................................................................... 317
  11.6 Industrial Cake and Cream Margarine ............................ 318
  11.7 Puff Pastry Margarine ....................................................... 320
  11.8 Industrial Fillings.............................................................. 321
  11.9 Reduced- Low-Fat Spreads .............................................. 321
  11.10 Product Spoilage ............................................................ 323
  11.11 Summary .................................................................... 325

Chapter 12  Application of Emulsifiers to Reduce Fat and Enhance Nutritional Quality ................................................. 327
Matt Golding and Eddie Pelan
  12.1 Introduction................................................................... 327
  12.2 Homogenised Dairy and Non-Dairy Whipping Creams .......... 328
  12.3 Reduced and Low Fat Ice Cream ..................................... 333
  12.4 Zero Fat Ice Cream ......................................................... 339
  12.5 Margarine ..................................................................... 341

Chapter 13  Guidelines for Processing Emulsion-Based Foods ........ 349
Ganesan Narsimhan and Zebin Wang
  13.1 Introduction................................................................... 349
  13.2 Emulsification Equipment ............................................... 350
  13.3 Droplet Phenomena .......................................................... 354
  13.4 Example of Emulsion Based Food Products ..................... 387
  13.5 Guidelines for Selection of Food Emulsifiers ..................... 389

Chapter 14  Forecasting the Future of Food Emulsifiers ............... 395
Gerard L. Hasenhuettl
  14.1 Globalization of the Food Industry ................................. 395
  14.2 Nutritionally Driven Changes in Foods ............................ 396
  14.3 Advances in Science and Technology ............................. 398
  14.4 Design, Synthesis, and Commercial Preparation ............ 400
  14.5 Applications at the Frontiers .......................................... 400
