CONTENTS

Preface vii

List of Contributors ix

Section 1: Introduction 1
1. Geography as an active social science 1
   Rod Gerber and Michael Williams

Section 2: Geography and Culture 13
2. Geography as a cultural field 13
   Wayne Davies and Mary Gilmartin

3. Geography, culture, values and education 31
   Gwyn Edwards

4. Geography, technology and culture 41
   Sue Buzer

5. Traditional medicine in Southeast Asia with special reference to Malaysia and Indonesia 51
   Shaharudden Ahmad

6. Cultural interpretation and research in geography 65
   Anders Narman

Section 3: Geography and Citizenship 77
7. Connectedness and self-meaning 77
   Margaret Robertson

8. Geography and the informed citizen 93
   David Lambert

9. Active citizenship: empowering people as cultural agents through geography 105
   Daniella Tilbury

10. Environment and citizenship: from the local to the global 115
    Manuela Malheiro Ferreira
11. Political geography, geographical education and citizenship
    Joseph Stoltman and Lisa DeChano
    127

12. Geography and communities
    Dooil Kim
    145

Section 4: Pedagogic Implications

13. Geography, culture and knowing: hybridity and the production of social and cultural knowledge
    Jeff Lash and Pamela Wriedt
    159

14. Public participation and the active, critical citizen: another view
    David Stea
    169

15. New technologies and their impact on the culture of geography teaching and learning
    John Lidstone
    179

16. Conflict management: the role of geographical education
    Julie Okpala and Ann Okolo 191

17. Geography beyond the classroom: achieving cultural understanding through issue-based inquiry learning
    Tammy Kwan
    207

Section 5: Future Directions

18. Globalisation and Latin America: a fruitless search for balance
    Josefina Ostuni
    221

19. Geographical education and the challenge of lifelong learning
    Rod Gerber and Michael Williams
    233
Geography, Culture and Education
Gerber, R.; Williams, M. (Eds.)
2002, XIII, 250 p. 7 illus., Hardcover
ISBN: 978-1-4020-0878-8