Contents

Preface......................................................................................................................... v
Rachael C. Murrihy, Antony D. Kidman, and Thomas H. Ollendick

SECTION I: AN INTRODUCTION TO CONDUCT PROBLEMS IN YOUTH

Chapter 1. Conduct Problems in Youth: Phenomenology, Classification, and Epidemiology ..................................................... 3
Jennifer C. Wolff and Thomas H. Ollendick

Chapter 2. Conduct Problems in Youth: Sociological Perspectives ........................................... 21
Donald J. Shoemaker

Chapter 3. Etiology of Oppositional Defiant Disorder and Conduct Disorder: Biological, Familial and Environmental Factors Identified in the Development of Disruptive Behavior Disorders ...................................................... 49
Eva R. Kimonis and Paul J. Frick

Chapter 4. Assessment of Conduct Problems Using an Integrated, Process-Oriented Approach ............................................... 77
Tracy E. Rhodes and Mark R. Dadds
SECTION II: EVIDENCE-BASED TREATMENTS OF CONDUCT PROBLEMS: AN APPLIED APPROACH FOR PRACTITIONERS

Chapter 5. The Incredible Years Program for Children from Infancy to Pre-adolescence: Prevention and Treatment of Behavior Problems ................................................................. 117
_Carolyn H. Webster-Stratton and M. Jamila Reid_

Chapter 6. Parent–Child Interaction Therapy for Preschool Children with Conduct Problems .......................................................... 139
_Sheila M. Eyberg and Regina Bussing_

Chapter 7. Parent Training for the Treatment of Oppositional Behavior in Young Children: Helping the Noncompliant Child ............................................................... 163
_Robert J. McMahon, Nicholas Long, and Rex L. Forehand_

Chapter 8. Collaborative Problem Solving ........................................ 193
_Ross W. Greene_

Chapter 9. Cognitive Behavior Therapy for the Group-Based Treatment of Oppositional Youth .................................................. 221
_John E. Lochman, Caroline Boxmeyer, Nicole P. Powell, and Karen C. Wells_

Chapter 10. Functional Family Therapy: A Phase-Based and Multi-Component Approach to Change ........................................... 245
_James F. Alexander and Michael S. Robbins_

Chapter 11. Multisystemic Therapy for Conduct Problems in Youth ......................................................................................... 273
_Cindy M. Schaeffer, Michael R. McCart, Scott W. Henggeler, and Phillippe B. Cunningham_

SECTION III: EVIDENCE-BASED TREATMENT OF YOUTH WITH CONDUCT PROBLEMS IN DIVERSE SETTINGS

Chapter 12. Social Competency CBT-Based Group Training for Youth in Alternative School Settings ........................................... 295
_Rachael C. Murrihy_

Chapter 13. Residential Treatment Centers for Children and Adolescents with Conduct Disorders .................................................. 333
_Paul A. LeBuffe, Suzanne Robison, and Davida J. Chamberlin-Elliott_

_Garry F. A. Coventry and Laura G. Swanson_
Chapter 15. Pharmacotherapy for Children and Adolescents with Conduct Problems ................................. 383
Helen L. Smith and David R. Coghill

SECTION IV: LOOKING FORWARD: PREVENTION PROGRAMS AND ADVANCED TREATMENT CONSIDERATIONS

Chapter 16. The Fast Track Project: Preventing Severe Conduct Problems in School-Age Youth ................................. 407
Conduct Problems Prevention Research Group

Chapter 17. Prevention: The Role of Early Universal and Targeted Interventions ................................................. 435
Matthew R. Sanders and Alina Morawska

Chapter 18. Evidence-Based Treatments for Conduct Problems Among Ethnic Minorities .................................. 455
Judy K. Ho, Kristen M. McCabe, May Yeh, and Anna S. Lau

Chapter 19. Evidence-Based Treatment Programs for Conduct Problems: Are They Cost Effective? .................. 489
E. Michael Foster

Chapter 20. Epilogue: Future Directions in Research and Practice ................................................................. 517
Rachael C. Murrihy, Thomas H. Ollendick, and Antony D. Kidman

Index ............................................................................................................. 531
Clinical Handbook of Assessing and Treating Conduct Problems in Youth
Murrihy, R.C.; Kidman, A.D.; Ollendick, Th.H. (Eds.)
2010, XXIV, 544 p., Hardcover