Part I  Geoscience and Military History

An Unfortunate Accident of Geography: Badlands and the ANZAC Sector, Gallipoli, April–December 1915 ........................................ 3
Peter Doyle

From Army Outpost to Military Training Installations for Worldwide Operations: How WWII Transformed the Military
Presence in the Southwestern United States ............................................. 19
Donald E. Sabol and Eric V. McDonald

Preparing for War in the Desert Southwest; From the California—Arizona Maneuver Area to the Yuma Test Branch
(and Beyond) .......................................................................................... 37
William J. Heidner

The Influence of Physical Geography
on the Battle of Kasserine Pass, Tunisia 1943 ............................................ 51
Daniel A. Gilewitch and Jay D. Pellerin

The Influence of Geology and Geography on the Indian Wars in Eastern Washington Territory ................................................................ 67
Stephen W. Henderson and Michael M. Hamilton

Teaching Military Geoscience in the Twenty-first Century
Classroom: Virtual Field Explorations of the Gettysburg Battlefield ...... 83
W. Lee Beatty and Candace L. Kairies-Beatty

Fort Fisher, NC Past and Present: A Geospatial Analysis using LiDAR and GIS ...................................................................................... 95
Michael J. Starek, Russell S. Harmon and Helena Mitasova
Part II  Military and Defense Interests and the Environment

There’s Uranium in Them Hills: The Archaeology of Nevada’s Uranium Boom ................................................................. 107
Jonah S. Blustain

Military Development and Geographic Change on San Diego Bay .... 123
Andy Yatsko

High Density Metal Contaminant Transport in Arid Region Ephemeral Channels ................................................................. 139
Julianne J. Miller, David S. Shafer, Charalampos Papelis,
Craig A. Refosco and Nathan A. Krzyaniak

Comparing Playa Inundation Estimates from Landsat and LiDAR Data to a Doppler Radar-Based Hydrologic Model .......... 153
Mary E. Cablk, Julianne J. Miller and Steve A. Mizell

Environmental Security and Trans-Boundary Water Resources ........ 169
Francis A. Galgano

Environmental Reporting in the South African Department of Defense and Military Veterans ............................................. 191

Operation Iraqi Freedom (OIF) and the Use of Forwarding Operating Bases (FOBs) .................................................. 205
Eugene J. Palka

U.S. Army Agriculture Development Teams, Afghanistan: The Role of the Geoscientist .................................................. 221
Alexander K. Stewart

Regional Distribution of Salt-Rich Dust Across Southwest Asia Based on Predictive Soil-Geomorphic Mapping Techniques ........ 237
Steven N. Bacon and Eric V. McDonald

Part III  Geoscience Technology in Support of Military Activities

Digital Elevation Models to Support Desert Warfare .................. 259
Peter L. Guth

Military Test Site Characterization and Training Future Officers—An Integrated Terrain Analysis Approach .................. 273
Steven Fleming, Eric V. McDonald and Steven N. Bacon
Use of Ground-Based LiDAR for Detection of IED Command Wires on Typical Desert Surfaces ................................................................. 297
Eric V. McDonald and Rina Schumer

Parent Material Mapping of Geologic Surfaces Using ASTER in Support of Integrated Terrain Forecasting for Military Operations ........ 311
Donald E. Sabol, Timothy B. Minor, Eric V. McDonald and Steven N. Bacon

Analysis of Recurring Sinking Events of Armored Tracked Vehicles in the Israeli Agricultural Periphery of the Gaza Strip ................................................................. 339
Joel Roskin

Integrated Terrain Forecasting for Military Operations in Deserts: Geologic Basis for Rapid Predictive Mapping of Soils and Terrain Features ................................................................. 353
Eric V. McDonald, Steven N. Bacon, Scott D. Bassett, Rivka Amit, Yehouda Enzel, Timothy B. Minor, Ken McGwire, Onn Crouvi and Yoav Nahmias
Military Geosciences and Desert Warfare
Past Lessons and Modern Challenges
