Contents

1 Introduction ................................................................. 1
   1.1 Notes on Previous Literature ........................................ 5

2 Medical and Cultural Background ........................................ 9
   2.1 The Medical Notion of Mental Disorders ............................ 10
       2.1.1 The Hippocratic On the Sacred Disease .................... 10
       2.1.2 The Concept of Mania ............................................ 13
       2.1.3 Melancholy .......................................................... 19
       2.1.4 Further Remarks on the Ancient Medical Discussion on Mental Illness ........................................... 23
   2.2 The Popular Conception of Mental Illness and the Greek Vocabulary of Madness ........................................... 26

3 Plato on Madness and Mental Disorders ................................. 35
   3.1 Preliminary Observations .............................................. 35
   3.2 The Phaedrus and Inspired Madness ............................... 37
   3.3 Further Remarks on Poetic and Prophetic Madness ............... 40
   3.4 Diseases of the Soul in the Timaeus ............................... 43
       3.4.1 Diseases of the Soul and the Aetiology of Evil ............... 44
       3.4.2 Therapy of the Soul ............................................... 48
       3.4.3 The Soul and the Anthropology of the Timaeus ............ 49
   3.5 The Republic and the Laws—Defective Souls in Society .... 51
       3.5.1 The Republic and the Aristocracy of Reason ............... 52
       3.5.2 Corrupted Types of City, Corrupted Types of Man .......... 54
       3.5.3 The Laws—Legislation as the Educator of Citizens ....... 58
   3.6 Conclusions .................................................................. 66

4 The Aristotelian Concept of Mental Disorders ........................ 69
   4.1 The Nature of Mental Illness ........................................... 69
   4.2 Symptoms of Mental Illness ............................................ 77
   4.3 Deficiency of Reason and Ethical Concerns ........................ 85
Contents

8 Appendix A: Aristotle and Caelius Aurelianus on Homosexuality

9 Appendix B: Philosophers as Mental Patients
   in Ancient Tradition
   9.1 Democritus’ Madness
   9.2 Lucretius’ Mental Illness
   9.3 Porphyry’s Case of Melancholy

Bibliography
   Editions of Primary Sources Referred to by the Editor’s Name
   Secondary Sources

Author Index

Index Locorum

Subject Index
Mental Disorders in Ancient Philosophy
Ahonen, M.
2014, XI, 265 p. 1 illus., Hardcover
ISBN: 978-3-319-03430-0