

Contents

1 Introduction: The World as a Stereogram .....	1
José Filipe Silva and Mikko Yrjönsuuri
2 Plato: Interaction Between the External Body and the Perceiver in the Timaeus .....	9
Pauliina Remes
3 Activity, Passivity, and Perceptual Discrimination in Aristotle .....	31
Klaus Corcilius
4 On Activity and Passivity in Perception: Aristotle, Philoponus, and Pseudo-Simplicius .....	55
Miira Tuominen
5 Augustine on Active Perception .....	79
José Filipe Silva
6 Avicenna on the Soul's Activity in Perception .....	99
Jari Kaukua
7 Medieval Theories of Active Perception: An Overview .....	117
José Filipe Silva
8 Agent Sense in Averroes and Latin Averroism .....	147
Jean-Baptiste Brenet
9 Active Perception from Nicholas of Cusa to Thomas Hobbes .....	167
Cees Leijenhorst
10 Seeing Distance .....	187
Mikko Yrjönsuuri

11 Descartes and Active Perception .....	207
Cecilia Wee
12 Locke and Active Perception .....	223
Vili Lähteenmäki
13 Spinoza on Activity in Sense Perception .....	241
Valtteri Viljanen
14 Berkeley and Activity in Visual Perception .....	255
Ville Paukkonen
15 Activity and Passivity in Theories of Perception: Descartes to Kant .....	275
Gary Hatfield
Index .....	291

<http://www.springer.com/978-3-319-04360-9>

Active Perception in the History of Philosophy

From Plato to Modern Philosophy

Silva, J.F.; Yrjönsuuri, M. (Eds.)

2014, IX, 293 p. 5 illus., Hardcover

ISBN: 978-3-319-04360-9