

Contents

1	Introduction: Culture, Diversity and Heritage	1
1.1	Culture Is Good for Thinking About Human Relationships.	1
1.2	Arbitrating Collective Dreams.	3
1.3	Influencing International Social and Cultural Policy.	7
1.4	The Search for Tools for Analysing Culture in Anthropological Studies	10
	References.	11
 Part I Culture, Knowledge and Diversity
2	Arbitrating Collective Dreams: Anthropology and the New Worlding	15
2.1	Introduction	15
2.2	Arbitrating International Visions: The Humanist Manifesto II	17
2.3	Harvesting Culture Around the World: The World Commission on Culture and Development	19
2.4	The Mind-Reading Anthropologist	22
2.5	Reading the Mind of an Aztec Dancer.	22
2.6	The Social Structure of the Mexica Dance	24
2.7	Constructing the Self	26
2.8	Why Do They Dance?	27
2.9	The Dynamics of Social Arbitration	27
	References.	29
3	The Ritual and the Promise: Why People Value Social Ritual.	31
3.1	Introduction	31
3.2	Anthropological Theories of Value	32

3.3	Performing Rituals	36
3.4	The Day of the Dead.	38
3.5	Interpreting the Ritual's Value	41
3.6	Conclusion.	44
	References.	45
4	Culture and Science	47
4.1	Introduction	47
4.2	Nature or Culture?	48
4.3	Culture: Sparks in the Brain	49
4.4	Layers of Neurons and Complexity	49
4.5	Culture as a Heuristic Tool for Science	50
4.6	Cultural Challenges in a Globalized World.	51
4.7	Culture as the Soul of Development	52
4.8	Towards a New Global Ethics	54
4.9	Diverse Cultures, Equal Vulnerability	55
4.10	Cultural Values in a Global Era: The Rainbow River.	56
	References.	56
5	The Intellectual History of Culture and Development
	Institutions	59
5.1	Introduction	59
5.2	Defining Culture as a Human Right.	61
5.3	The Splintering of Culture in the United Nations Institutions	61
5.4	Culture in Development Theories	63
5.5	The 'Subculture of Poverty'	64
5.6	'When Is a Culture not a Culture?'	65
5.7	'Cultural Readjustment' in Economic Development.	66
5.8	Culture and Internal Colonialism.	67
5.9	Women, Culture and Development	68
5.10	Cultural Policies in the Eighties	69
5.11	Cultural Diversity and Modernization	70
5.12	The Evanescence of Culture: The Debates of the Nineties	72
5.13	The UN World Commission on Culture and Development	73
5.14	The World Culture Reports	75
5.15	The Cultural Transition	75
	References.	79
6	Cultural Diversity as a Source of Creativity for Globalization.	83
6.1	Introduction	83
6.2	Cultural Diversity, Justice and Recognition	85
6.3	One Global Culture or Many?	87
6.4	Cultural Content Commodities	87

6.5	Cultural Debates and Repositioning in Markets	88
	References.	90
 Part II Reconfiguring Intangible Cultural Heritage
7	How to Reconceptualize Intangible Cultural Heritage.	95
	References.	99
8	The Genealogy of Intangible Cultural Heritage	101
8.1	Introduction	101
8.2	Depths and Curves of Imagination and Politics	103
8.3	When Cultural Loss Becomes Visible, Culture Becomes Political	106
8.4	Laying the Groundwork for Intangible Cultural Heritage	107
8.5	Working Definitions of Intangible Cultural Heritage: Human Rights, Cultural Domains and Local Agency	109
8.6	Constant Challenges	113
8.7	Conclusions	115
	References.	116
9	Cultural Endowments at Risk in Induced Development	119
9.1	Introduction	119
9.2	Cultural Heritage: Tangible and Intangible	120
9.3	The ‘Public Goods’ of the Cultural Sector	122
9.4	Social Science for Cultural Safeguarding	123
9.5	The Changing Boundaries of Cultures	125
9.6	Cultural Overload and Multi-tiered Loyalties	127
9.7	Language Loss and Language Policies	129
9.8	Physical and Intangible Cultural Heritage	130
9.9	International Programmes for Protecting Heritage	132
	References.	133
 Part III Influencing International Social and Cultural Policy
10	Culture, Governance and Globalization	139
10.1	Introduction	139
10.2	Even in Affluence.	140
10.3	Cross-Border Movements and Development	142
10.4	Knowledge, Research and Self-correction.	143
10.5	Cultural Imbalances.	144
	References.	145

11	Freedom of Choice, Democracy and the Zapatistas	147
11.1	Introduction	147
11.2	The Zapatistas as a Global Movement	149
11.3	Culture as a New Development Banner	150
11.4	And When We Woke Up, Poverty Was Still There	151
11.5	The Zapatistas and Cultural Democracy	154
11.6	A Guerrilla in Search of Authors	154
11.7	Culture and the Reform of the State	155
	References.	156
12	Equality of Vulnerability and Opportunity	157
12.1	Introduction	157
12.2	A Higher Order of Civilization	158
12.3	Cultural Diversity in the Geopolis	159
12.4	Negotiating the Future	160
12.5	To See How Things Are	161
12.6	Negotiating Cultural Pluralism	162
12.7	Equality of Vulnerability	162
12.8	Global Ethics	163
12.9	The Need for Social Studies	163
12.10	A New Collective Will	164
	References.	164
13	Convivencia: The Goal of Convivability	165
	Reference	167
14	Freedom to Create	169
14.1	Introduction	169
14.2	Culture and Development	170
14.3	Culture as Symbol and Commodity	171
14.4	Who Decides?	172
14.5	Cultural Policies	173
	References.	175
 Part IV Exploring Research Tools to Analyse Culture
15	Culture and Development: A Comparative Study of Beliefs	179
15.1	Introduction	179
15.2	The ‘Anxiety’ of the Zamoranos	180
15.3	The Responses to the Survey	181
15.4	Culture and Modernity	182
15.5	Women and Religious Beliefs	183
15.6	Knowledge and Truth	184

15.7	Politics and Authoritarianism	185
15.8	Morality and Sexism	186
15.9	Gender Semantics	187
15.10	Assessing Cultural Development in Zamora	189
15.11	Towards the Future	189
15.12	Conclusion	191
	References.	192
	Universidad Nacional Autónoma de México (UNAM)	193
	Centro Regional de Investigaciones Multidisciplinarias (CRIM).	195
	About the Author	197
	About this Book	199

<http://www.springer.com/978-3-319-13810-7>

Culture, Diversity and Heritage: Major Studies

Arizpe, L.

2015, XVI, 199 p. 35 illus., 34 illus. in color., Softcover

ISBN: 978-3-319-13810-7