

Contents

1	Milton Santos and the Centrality of the Periphery	1
	Lucas Melgaço and Carolyn Prouse
1.1	Milton Santos: A Geographer of the South?	4
1.2	The Restless Thinker	5
1.3	A Miltonian Epistemology	10
1.4	Crossing Linguistic Divides	15
1.5	The Book	16
	References.	22
2	The Return of the Territory	25
	Milton Santos
3	Technical-Scientific-Informational Milieu, Networks and Territories	33
	Sarita Albagli
3.1	Introduction	34
3.2	Space, a Hybrid	35
3.3	Technical-Scientific-Informational Milieu	36
3.4	The Geography of Networks.	38
3.5	Horizontalities and Verticalities	39
3.6	New Frontiers.	41
	References.	42
4	How Can Santos's Theory and Concepts Help Us to Better Understand Third World Dynamics and Problems?	45
	Aurélien Reys
4.1	Introduction	45
4.2	Milton Santos and the Third World	46
4.3	Cities of the Third World	47

4.4	The Two Circuits and the Shared Space	49
4.5	Conclusion	51
	References.	52
5	Psychosphere and Technosphere: Complex Relations in the Hospital Realm	55
	Eliza Pinto de Almeida
5.1	Introduction	55
5.2	The Psychosphere and the Technosphere of Fear: Hospitals in the Middle Ages.	57
5.3	The Hospital's Technosphere and Psychosphere in the Scientific and Technical Period.	60
5.4	The Complex Hospital Technosphere and Psychosphere in the Technical-Scientific-Informational Period	62
	References.	65
6	The Political Economy of Territory and Agribusiness in Brazil.	67
	Samuel Frederico and Marina Castro de Almeida
6.1	Introduction	67
6.2	Toward a Political Economy of Territory	68
6.3	Pact of the Political Economy of Territory Based on Agribusiness	70
6.4	Centrifugal and Centripetal Forces: The Expansion of the Agricultural Frontier and the Commanding Role of the Metropolis of São Paulo.	71
6.5	Final Considerations	75
	References.	76
7	Territorial Planning in Brazil: An Interpretation Based on the Ideas of Milton Santos	79
	Luís Angelo dos S. Aracri
7.1	Introduction	79
7.2	The 'First Era' of Territorial Planning in Brazil	80
7.3	The Current Dynamics of Territorial Planning in Brazil.	83
7.4	A Non-Conclusion	87
	References.	89
8	Rethinking Federalism through the Work of Milton Santos	91
	Fabício Gallo
8.1	Introduction	91
8.2	The Relevancy of the Used Territory in the Analysis of the Federation.	92
8.3	Federalism as Geographical Event	93

8.4 Selective Renovation of Materialities and the Distribution of Tributary Resources Among Federate Entities 95

8.5 Final Considerations 98

References. 99

9 Milton Santos’s Contribution to Understanding the Transformations Underway at Modern Agricultural Frontiers 101
 Júlia Adão Bernardes

9.1 Introduction 101

9.2 New Expansion of the Modern Agricultural Frontier in the Brazilian State of Mato Grosso. 103

9.3 Milton Santos on the Agricultural Frontier 104

9.4 New Space-Times of Mato Grosso 106

9.5 New Contradictions in Mato Grosso and Pará: Competing Values and the Exploitation of Labour and Natural Resources 108

9.6 Concluding Remarks. 110

References. 111

10 Geography and Indigenous Peoples: Milton Santos and the Richness of the Present Time 113
 Roberta Carvalho Arruzzo

10.1 Introduction 114

10.2 Territory and Indigenous Peoples in Brazil. 115

10.3 Slow People and Opaque Spaces: Proposing a Geographical Perspective on Indigenous Land Issues. 119

10.4 Conclusion: Transforming Geographic Thought 123

References. 123

11 Milton Santos’s Thought and the Logic of Environmental Conservation in the Contemporary Period 125
 Maria Tereza Duarte Paes and Claudia Levy

11.1 Introduction 126

11.2 Conservation Units: Vertically Imposed Scientific and Informational Objects. 128

11.3 New Use and Management Norms 130

11.4 Effects of Conservation Units in the Reshaping of Places. 131

11.5 Final Thoughts 134

References. 134

12 Environmental Crisis Through the Theories of Milton Santos 137
 Francisco J. Toro

12.1 Introduction 137

12.2 Ontological. 140

12.3	Epistemic	141
12.4	Technical	144
12.5	Ethical	146
12.6	Final Remarks: Santos and the Environmental Crisis as ‘Deterritorialization’	148
	References.	149
	Milton Santos’s Selected Bibliography.	151
	About Milton Santos.	159
	About the Editors	161
	About the Contributors	163

<http://www.springer.com/978-3-319-53825-9>

Milton Santos: A Pioneer in Critical Geography from the Global South

Melgaço, L.; Prouse, C. (Eds.)

2017, VIII, 165 p. 12 illus., 4 illus. in color., Hardcover

ISBN: 978-3-319-53825-9