Contents – Outline

List of Abbreviations ................................................................. xxii
Table of Cases ............................................................... xxiii
Table of German Cases ......................................................... xxv

Introduction ....................................................................................... 1
1 Modern developments ................................................................. 1
2 Research questions and structure of the book ......................... 1
3 The subject matter: Transnational uniform contract law .......... 2

Part 1: General aspects of uniform private law:
Jurisprudential categories and purpose ....................................... 5

Chapter 1: Diversity in the law ................................................. 7
1 Sovereignty of states and the role of private law ..................... 7
   1.1 Assertion of sovereignty in international trade .................. 9
   1.2 Assertion of sovereignty towards the private individual ...... 10
   1.3 Unity of law and state: The state as the sole source of law? .. 11
       1.3.1 Territorial matters and the paradox of contract law .... 11
       1.3.2 Sovereignty and legitimacy of private law ............... 13
       1.3.3 Legitimacy of a-national commercial law ............... 18
   1.4 Conclusion ...................................................................... 21
1.2 Distinctiveness of substantive contract law of distinct sovereign states .... 21
   1.2.1 Application of foreign law ........................................ 22
       1.2.1.1 Forum and territory ........................................ 22
       1.2.1.2 Legal theory .............................................. 23
   1.2.2 Reception of foreign law ........................................... 26
   1.2.3 Conclusion .................................................................. 28
1.3 Party autonomy: How autonomous is the individual? .......... 28
   1.3.1 Choice of law .......................................................... 28
       1.3.1.1 Common law .............................................. 28
       1.3.1.2 The Rome Convention .................................. 29
   1.3.2 Limits of choice of law: Doctrines of evasion and the role of mandatory rules .................. 30
   1.3.3 Conclusion ............................................................. 32
1.4 Conclusion ...................................................................... 33
Chapter 2: Unity through uniform private law

2.1 Why uniformity?
   2.1.1 Globalisation
   2.1.2 The costs of difference
   2.1.3 Inverse conclusion: Indicators of acceptance
   2.1.4 Conclusion

2.2 What uniformity?
   2.2.1 Uniformity of results: The desire for certainty and predictability
   2.2.2 Uniformity of sources
      2.2.2.1 Uniformity through codification on the domestic level
      2.2.2.2 Uniformity on the international level: Examples of uniform law sources
   2.2.3 Uniformity of application and interpretation methods
   2.2.4 Conclusion

2.3 Conclusion

Conclusion (Part 1)

Part 2: Methods of applying uniform private law within domestic legal systems

Introduction

Chapter 3: Performance of payment obligations in the UPICC

3.1 Starting point: Article 7.2.1 UPICC and scholarly critique
   3.1.1 Articles 7.2.1 and 7.2.2 UPICC
   3.1.2 Scholarly critique

3.2 Towards a methodology of transnational contract law:
   Doctrinal foundations
   3.2.1 Autonomous method of applying Art 7.2.1 UPICC
   3.2.2 Conclusion and structure of autonomous methodological approach

3.3 Scope of the payment rule in Art 7.2.1 UPICC
   3.3.1 The legal nature of the right to performance in Art 7.2.1 UPICC
   3.3.2 The wording of Art 7.2.1: Unqualified right to performance?
      Debt or damages?
   3.3.3 Termination and non-performance under Arts 7.3.1, 7.3.3 UPICC

3.4 Conclusion

Chapter 4: Exemplary application of the UPICC in the context of English law

4.1 Compatibility of the UPICC with English law
   4.1.1 Requiring performance and payment obligations in international contract law
   4.1.2 The law relating to specific performance of payment obligations in common law jurisdictions
   4.1.3 Common origins of specific performance in European jurisdictions
4.1.3.1 Roman law and the reception through the Bolognese glossators ................................................................. 79
4.1.3.2 Specific performance in the form of astreinte in French law ................................................................. 80

4.2 Scope of employer’s rights under construction contracts under English law 83
4.2.1 Standard terms and practice of contract drafting of international construction and building contracts under English law ............. 83
4.2.2 Speculative aspects of international contract practice and contractual performance ......................................................... 84
4.2.3 Cancellation rights, breach of contract and anticipatory repudiation in English law ............................................... 87
4.2.4 The aggrieved party’s options on anticipatory breach under English law ......................................................... 88
4.2.5 Compelling performance and enforceability of the contract by action for the price ..................................................... 89

4.3 Conclusion ................................................................. 93

Chapter 5: Exemplary application of the UPICC in the context of German law ................................................................. 95
5.1 Payment obligations in building contracts under German law ............ 96
5.1.1 Standard terms: Do they offer a better solution than the UPICC? .... 101
5.1.2 The right of cancellation and the modified payment obligation in §649 BGB ............................................................ 102
5.1.3 The modified payment obligation as a disguised damages rule ...... 105
5.1.4 Law reform projects ........................................................................................................................................... 106
5.2 Compatibility of the solution provided by the UPICC with German law.... 114
5.2.1 The contractor’s right to terminate .................................................. 114
5.2.2 The employer’s right to terminate .................................................. 115
5.2.3 The rules on termination in the UPICC as a suitable substitute for cancellation .......................................................... 115
5.3 Specific performance in German law: The civil law position ............. 116
5.3.1 Specific performance in the language and system of the BGB ...... 121
5.3.2 The notion of legitimate interest limiting performance claims ...... 122
5.3.3 Direct limitations to the right to performance ......................... 123
5.4 Conclusion ......................................................................................................................................................... 125

Conclusion (Part 2).................................................................................................................................................. 127

Part 3: The UNIDROIT principles in the conflict of laws .................. 129
Introduction .......................................................................................................................................................... 129

Chapter 6: Status quo of transnational law in the conflict of laws ..... 131
6.1 Choice of law under English and German law – and the Rome Convention ................................................................................. 131
6.1.1 The scope of the RC in the UK and traditional English choice of law ............................................................................. 132
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Section</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>6.1.2 The scope of the RC in Germany and traditional choice of law rules</td>
<td>132</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6.1.3 Traditional English and German choice of law rules</td>
<td>133</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6.1.3.1 The role of contractual obligations as a criterion to determine the applicable law</td>
<td>133</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6.1.3.2 Finding a legal system for the contract</td>
<td>134</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6.1.4 Finding a state for the contract under the scope of the Rome Convention</td>
<td>134</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6.2 Current use of the UPICC: Experience in practice</td>
<td>137</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6.2.1 Source of law function of the UPICC in general legal doctrine</td>
<td>138</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6.2.2 Significance of the doctrines of sources of laws in practice</td>
<td>140</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6.2.3 The UPICC in the traditional doctrine of sources of law</td>
<td>141</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6.3 Consequences under the prevailing view regarding the UPICC as governing law</td>
<td>143</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6.3.1 Considerations permitting further evolution of the UPICC towards sources of law</td>
<td>143</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6.3.2 Suggested focus of research to establish the origin of source of law function of the UPICC</td>
<td>145</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6.4 Conclusion</td>
<td>148</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Chapter 7: Methods of integration in the general conflict of laws</td>
<td>149</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7.1 Review of the current discussion regarding the status of transnational law</td>
<td>149</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7.1.1 Art 3 RC</td>
<td>150</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7.1.2 No source of law function without state legislation</td>
<td>151</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7.1.3 Party autonomy as source of law</td>
<td>152</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7.1.4 Substantive argument</td>
<td>153</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7.2 Arbitration awards as source of law: ICC case No 7110</td>
<td>153</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7.2.1 Application of the UPICC and general principles of law under procedural aspects</td>
<td>154</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7.2.2 Construction of choice of law clause</td>
<td>154</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7.2.2.1 Scope of the UPICC according to their Preamble</td>
<td>155</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7.2.2.2 Substantive aspects supporting application of UPICC</td>
<td>156</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7.2.3 Application to the substance of the dispute</td>
<td>157</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7.2.3.1 Primary or secondary sources of law? Ambiguous situation</td>
<td>157</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7.2.3.2 Four counts of analysis of UPICC provisions</td>
<td>158</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7.2.3.3 First conclusion: Questionable role of arbitration tribunals as pioneers of integrating a-national law rules into domestic doctrine</td>
<td>159</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7.2.3.4 Fifth and sixth count of reference to UPICC and analytical evaluation</td>
<td>161</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7.2.3.5 Second conclusion</td>
<td>163</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7.3 Reconciliation of UPICC with domestic conflict of laws</td>
<td>164</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7.3.1 Combination solution in choice of law clauses</td>
<td>165</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7.3.2 The doctrine of gaps in international uniform laws and supplementary application of domestic law</td>
<td>165</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Chapter 8: Methods of integration through commercial arbitration

8.1 Choice of law in commercial arbitration

8.1.1 Current German law of arbitration

8.1.2 Doctrinal requirements disregarded by legislator

8.1.3 Case law

8.1.4 Status quo regarding the application of the UPICC in arbitration proceedings under German law

8.1.5 Comparing other national legislation relating to choice of law in commercial arbitration

8.2 Challenging awards based on a-national law under domestic arbitration law

8.2.1 Scope of judicial supervision in selected arbitration laws

8.2.2 Judicial review of arbitration awards based on a-national law rules under current English law

8.2.2.1 Significance of judicial review for the development of English commercial law

8.2.2.2 Traditional position in English law set forth in the Arbitration Act 1996?

8.2.2.3 Legal situation under the Arbitration Act 1996

8.2.2.4 Case law: Authority following the Channel Tunnel litigation

8.2.2.5 Scope of appeal on questions of law

8.2.2.6 Discussion of the position under English arbitration legislation and the formative role of the courts

8.2.2.7 Conclusion

8.2.3 Judicial review of commercial arbitration awards under current German law

8.2.3.1 No clear position in legal writings

8.2.3.2 Critical voices and well-preserved prejudices

8.2.3.3 Advocated motivations for choice of law

8.2.3.4 Stigmatising a-national rules of law regarding choice of law in international contracts for the wrong reasons

8.2.3.5 Protectionist viewpoint

8.2.3.6 The actual motivations behind choice of law clauses in international commercial contracts

8.2.3.7 Giving effect to choice of law clauses under the scope of the Rome Convention

8.2.3.8 Conclusion

8.3 The desirable standard in the law of arbitration: Discussion

8.3.1 The nature and objective of arbitration

8.3.2 Regulating contract law in the state

8.3.3 Historic argument: Forming identity
8.3.4 Recommended adjustment of legislation and analytical foundations ................................................................. 206
  8.3.4.1 Equity decisions distinct from application of a-national rules of law ......................................................... 206
  8.3.4.2 Reassuring position in case law ................................................. 207
8.3.5 Status quo under German law: Conclusion ................................................................. 208
8.3.6 Comment and suggestion for a doctrine of international commercial contract within the German legal system .................. 208
8.4 Summary: Autonomous source of law function of a-national rules of law ................................................................. 209
8.5 Conclusion ............................................... 210

Chapter 9: Conclusion .............................................. 213

Bibliography ......................................................... 217
Methodology of Uniform Contract Law
The UNIDROIT Principles in International Legal Doctrine and Practice
Heidemann, M.
2007, XXVI, 230 p., Hardcover
ISBN: 978-3-540-44461-9