

Contents

Acknowledgements	VII
1 Introduction	1
2 Description of the Experiment	5
2.1 Experimental Design	5
2.2 Organizational Features	8
3 Data and Evaluation	11
3.1 Experimental Setup	11
3.1.1 Spontaneous versus Strategic Behavior	12
3.1.2 Observation and Group Effect	14
3.1.3 Number of Sessions and Statistical Analysis	15
3.2 Evaluation	15
3.2.1 Data	16
3.2.2 Data Analysis	18
4 Determinants of Boundedly Rational Behavior	21
4.1 Aspiration Levels	21
4.2 Prominence	22
4.3 The Equity Principle and Fairness	23
4.3.1 The Equity Principle	23
4.3.2 Fairness	26
4.4 Motivations, Emotions, and Social Norms	28
5 Analysis of Payoffs and Proposals	31
5.1 Bargaining Models and Related Experiments	31
5.2 Payoffs	36
5.2.1 Inexperienced Groups	38

5.2.2	Experienced Groups	39
5.2.3	Group Effects	42
5.3	Proposals	44
5.3.1	Inexperienced Groups	44
5.3.2	Experienced Groups	45
5.3.3	Prominence Level of Proposals	46
5.4	Threats	50
5.4.1	Are Threats Successful?	52
5.4.2	Does Threatening Pay in Monetary Terms?	53
5.4.3	Do Threats Reduce the Bargaining Time?	54
5.5	Strategic Ideas	55
5.5.1	Constant Demand	56
5.5.2	“Jumping” between a Minimal Demand and a “Punishment Value”	57
5.5.3	Concessions to Reach an Agreement	58
5.5.4	Proposal of Equal Split by an S-group	58
5.5.5	Combinations of Behavior in 5.5.2 and 5.5.3	58
5.6	Conclusion	59
6	Equity and Prominence in Aspiration Levels and Proposals	61
6.1	The Equity Principle and Fairness	61
6.2	Prominence	66
6.3	Aspiration Levels	66
6.3.1	Formation and Adaptation of Aspiration Levels	67
6.3.2	Finding the First Aspiration Level	67
6.3.3	Adaptation of Aspiration Levels	73
6.3.4	Test of the Predictive Success of the Principles Guiding Aspiration Level Formation and Adaptation	78
6.4	Proposals	81
6.4.1	First Demands and Adjustments of Proposals	83
6.4.2	First Demands/Offers	83
6.4.3	Adjustments of Proposals	83
6.5	The Negotiation Agreement Area - Comparison of Results	89

6.6 Other Aspiration Level Based Approaches	94
Explaining Outcomes of Bargaining
6.7 Conclusion	97
7 Break Offs	99
7.1 Correlates of Break Off Discussions	102
7.2 Monetary and Nonmonetary Motives	107
7.3 Motivations	109
7.3.1 Economic Efficiency	109
7.3.2 Power	112
7.4 Reciprocity, a Social Norm with Two Faces	115
7.4.1 Economic Literature on Reciprocity	116
7.4.2 Reciprocity in Break Off Discussions	119
7.5 Emotions	122
7.5.1 Emotions as Determinants for Primarily Non-Payoff- Oriented Break Off Discussions	123
7.5.2 Economic Literature Taking Account of Emotions	125
7.6 Motivational Explanation of Potential and Actual Break Offs	126
7.7 Conclusion	129
8 Conclusive Remarks: How Do Business People Decide?	131
Appendices	137
A Introduction of Experimental Subjects	137
B Negotiation Processes	141
C Negotiation Processes of the Kuon-Uhlich-Experiment	153
D Allocations	159
E Formation and Adaptation of Aspiration Levels	163
F Break Off Discussions	185

<http://www.springer.com/978-3-540-65415-5>

Bargaining in a Video Experiment
Determinants of Boundedly Rational Behavior
Hennig-Schmidt, H.
1999, XII, 221 p., Softcover
ISBN: 978-3-540-65415-5