Contents

List of Tables .......................................................................................................................... 11
List of Figures .......................................................................................................................... 15

1 Introduction ......................................................................................................................... 17
   1.1 Motivation and Aims of the Study ................................................................................. 18
   1.2 Theoretical Approach, Empirical Implementation, and Main Findings ....................... 19
   1.3 Outline of the Following Chapters .............................................................................. 22

2 Social Integration and Social Involvement from a Societal and Individual Perspective ......................................................................................................................... 25
   2.1 Social Integration as the Basis of Societies’ Functioning ............................................. 26
   2.2 Theories of Social Integration—Community and Society ............................................ 31
      2.2.1 Social Integration via the Labor Market ................................................................. 33
      2.2.2 Social Integration through Cultural Norms ............................................................ 35
      2.2.3 Social Integration as a Multi-Dimensional Concept ............................................... 37
      2.2.4 Social Change and Individualization ....................................................................... 39
      2.2.5 Domains of Integration—An Open Research Question .......................................... 42
   2.3 Participation as a Method of Social Integration ............................................................ 43
      2.3.1 The Economic System and the Labor Market ......................................................... 43
      2.3.2 Social Involvement in the Community and Social-Cultural Sphere ......................... 48
      2.3.3 Correlation between Areas of Participation ............................................................. 53

3 Social Involvement and Labor Market Participation as Individual Value Creation ................................................................................................................. 59
   3.1 Complementary Approaches for Explaining Individual Actions ................................... 59
   3.2 Individuals and the Production of Subjective Utility ..................................................... 61
3.3 Critical Acknowledgment ................................................................. 66
3.4 Involvement in Social Activities and the Labor Market for People’s Utility .................................................................................. 68
3.4.1 Involvement in Social Relationships, Activities, and Groups as an Intermediate Goal ................................................................. 69
3.4.2 Volunteering and Engagement in Political Associations .............. 73
3.4.3 Involvement on the Basis of Personal Interests and Identity .......... 76
3.4.4 Heterogeneous Rewards from Engagement in Social Groups and Social Activities ............................................................................. 79
3.4.5 Labor Market Participation as an Intermediate Goal ...................... 85
3.4.6 Heterogeneous Rewards from Employment ...................................... 91

4 Unemployment and Social Involvement—Relationships and Mechanisms ................................................................. 97

5 Empirical Literature Review: Bidirectional Relationship .................. 101
5.1 Labor Market Participation as a Consequence of Social Involvement ......................................................................................... 102
5.2 Labor Market Participation as a Resource for Social Involvement ......................................................................................... 105
5.3 Research Desiderata and Contributions to the Empirical Literature ......................................................................................... 114

6 Methodological Approach: Data, Variables, and Methods ............... 119
6.1 The Socio-Economic Panel Study .................................................... 119
6.2 Indicators and Variables for Social Involvement ............................. 121
6.3 Unemployment, Indicators for Losses and Control Variables .......... 125
6.4 Empirical Strategy and Estimation Methods .................................... 129
6.4.1 Multivariate Approaches in a Cross-Sectional Perspective .......... 132
6.4.2 Panel Regressions ......................................................................... 134
6.4.3 Entropy Balancing ......................................................................... 136

7 Empirical Results .................................................................................. 141
7.1 Descriptive and Cross-Sectional Results ........................................ 141
7.1.1 Social Involvement and Unemployment ....................................... 142
7.1.2 Social Involvement by Employment Status and Unemployment Experience ................................................................. 148
7.1.3 Differential Associations of Unemployment .................................. 151
7.1.4 Spurious Associations in a Cross-Sectional Multivariate Perspective ................................................................. 154

7.2 Causal Associations and Mechanisms .............................................. 159
7.2.1 The Total Effect of Employment Status on Social Involvement ... 159
7.2.2 Social Involvement of the Short- and Long-Term Unemployed ... 166
7.2.3 Mediated Effects of Unemployment by Material and Non-Material Losses ................................................................. 169
7.2.4 Social Involvement of Unemployed Men and Women ............. 177
7.2.5 Moderated Effects of Unemployment by Education and Occupational Status ............................................................ 182

7.3 Summary ......................................................................................... 190

8 Conclusion ....................................................................................... 195
8.1 Summary of the Study and Main Findings .................................... 195
8.2 Political Implications, Limitations, and Future Research .......... 201

References ........................................................................................... 205

Appendices .......................................................................................... 233
Dependencies and Mechanisms of Unemployment and Social Involvement
Findings from the Socio-Economic Panel Study (SOEP)
Sonnenberg, B.
2014, XVI, 239 p. 32 illus., Softcover
ISBN: 978-3-658-05354-3