Contents

General Introduction and Motivation 1

I Intergenerational Income Mobility and Education 7

1 Introduction 11

2 Related Literature 19

3 Education Policy and Intergenerational Income Mobility 26

3.1 Public Education and Equality of Opportunity 26

3.1.1 Intergenerational Correlation of Lifetime Incomes 27

3.1.2 Impact of Public Education Policy 30

3.2 Public Education and Private Human Capital Investment 34

3.2.1 Private Human Capital Investment and Income Mobility 35

3.2.2 Public Education, Private Human Capital Investment and Income Mobility 39

3.2.3 Impact of Public Education Policy 44

3.3 Implications 46

4 Intergenerational Income Persistence in Germany: the Role of Education and Occupation 45

4.1 Income Persistence across Generations 46

4.1.1 Theoretical Background 46

4.1.2 Immobility of Income across Generations 48

4.2 Intergenerational Transmission of Income Inequality 54

4.2.1 Decomposition of Intergenerational Income Persistence 54

4.2.2 Pathways of Intergenerational Transmission 58

4.2.3 Intergenerational Transmission 65

4.3 Implications 78

5 Conclusions 81

II Social Beliefs about Income Mobility and the Demand for Redistribution

6 Introduction \hfill 87

7 Related Literature \hfill 91

8 Social Beliefs and Redistributive Politics \hfill 95
   8.1 Incentives to Work and the Demand for Redistribution \hfill 95
      8.1.1 Optimal Decision under Certainty \hfill 96
      8.1.2 Optimal Decision under Uncertainty: Dynastic Learning \hfill 103
   8.2 Social Beliefs, Inequality of Opportunity, and the Demand for Redistribution \hfill 107
      8.2.1 Stable Beliefs and Long-Term Equilibrium \hfill 108
      8.2.2 Influencing Factors of Long-Term Equilibrium \hfill 113
      8.2.3 Equality of Opportunity and Income Mobility \hfill 122
   8.3 Implications \hfill 125

9 Income Mobility and Preferences for Redistribution: Empirical Observations \hfill 129

10 Conclusions \hfill 133

Final Remarks \hfill 137

References \hfill 141

Appendix \hfill 147
   A Derivation of the Intergenerational Income Immobility \hfill 147
      A.1 Income Elasticity in Absence of Public Education \hfill 147
      A.2 Public Education and Income Correlation across Generations \hfill 149
   B Sequential Decomposition of Income Immobility \hfill 151
   C Beliefs Regarding Income Determinants \hfill 160
      C.1 Derivation of the Expected Utility \hfill 160
      C.2 Derivation of the Social Welfare Function \hfill 161
      C.3 Inequality of Opportunity and Incentives to Work \hfill 162
C.4 Long-Term Equilibrium and its Influencing Factors . . . 162
Intergenerational Income Mobility and Redistributive Policy
Schad, M.
2016, XV, 172 p. 2 illus., Softcover
ISBN: 978-3-658-10464-1