Table of Contents

Part 1: Methodological Studies ................................................................. 1

Bounded Rationality, Very Young Financial Markets and the EU
Enlargement .................................................................................. 3

Adriana Agapie

A Continuous Time Approach to Cross Country Convergence .......... 19

Mónica Hernández

Part 2: Current Status, Prospects, Country Specific Problems of Accession and CEE's Convergence ................................................................. 37

Current Status, Prospects and Country Specific Problems of Accession:
Republic of Latvia ........................................................................ 39

Olegs Baranovs

The EU Accession Rally: Some Cross-Country Simulation Results ....... 55

Wojciech W. Charemza, Maria Blangiewicz, Krystyna Strzala

Inflation and the Real Exchange Rate in CEECs: Does Productivity
Growth Really Matter? ................................................................. 71

Balázs Égert

On the Convergence of Growth Path Towards Steady-States in OECD
Countries in Solow-Swan Type Models .......................................... 87

Pawel Kliber, Krzysztof Malaga

External Sector Response to Transition and External Shocks: The Case of Hungary ................................................................................. 105

Zsuzsanna Sisak-Fekete

Part 3: Studies in Transition ................................................................. 119

Modelling and Forecasting the GDP Structure of Polish and Estonian
Economies in Transition Period Using Markov Chains .................... 121

Joanna Górkà, Magdalena Osińska, Józef Stawicki

Macroeconomic Forecasts in Transition – Polish Projections in the ‘90s .... 137

Michał Greszta, Wojciech Maciejewski

A Quarterly Econometric Model of the Slovak Economy
QEM-ECM-1.0 ........................................................................ 153

Jan Haluška, Michal Olexa

Business Fluctuations and Changes on the Money Market in the Polish
Economy under Transition ......................................................... 163

Michał Kruszka
Stabilisation, Reform, Initial Conditions and Output Paths in Transition Economies .......................................................... 179
Bruno Merlevede

Part 4: Modelling Agriculture .................................................. 199
European Integration: Estimation of Agricultural Supply Response of Central and East European Countries ......................... 201
Pavel Ciaian, Artan Qineti, Anselm Enete
Economic Welfare Effects of Romanian Agricultural Accession to the EU ................................................................. 217
Maria C. Firici, Kenneth J. Thomson

Part 5: Wages, Prices and Labour Market ................................ 225
Modelling the Wage-Price System in Transition Economies .......... 227
Paul Ashworth, Uroš Čufer, Dawn Holland
The Institutional Dimension of Wage Determination in Romanian Industry .............................................................. 245
José de Sousa, Geomina Turlea
Interpreting the Price Adjustment Dynamics in Transition Economies ........ 267
Roberto Golinelli, Renzo Orsi
Wage and Price Inflation in Poland in the Period of Transition – The Cointegration Analysis ........................................... 291
Aleksander Welfe, Michał Majsterek

Part 6: Financial and Consumption Markets .............................. 305
Is the Warsaw Stock Exchange Mature Enough to Analyse the Returns by the Models Known on the Developed Markets? ............... 307
Anna Adamczak, Ewa Majerowska
Liquidity Constraints and Consumer Impatience .......................... 319
Zsófia Árvai, János I. Tóth
Modelling and Forecasting Volatility at Warsaw Stock Exchange: Application of ARCH Models ........................................ 337
Janusz Brzeszczyński
Looking for the Pattern of GARCH Type Models in Polish Stock Returns. Comparison with Indices of the EU and the East European Stock Markets ........................................ 355
Piotr Fiszeder, Jerzy Romaniński
A Markov Switching Model of Stock Returns: An Application to the Emerging Markets in Central and Eastern Europe .............. 371
Thomas Linne
East European Transition and EU Enlargement
A Quantitative Approach
Charemza, W.W.; Strzała, K. (Eds.)
2002, XIV, 386 p., Softcover
ISBN: 978-3-7908-1501-6
A product of Physica-Verlag Heidelberg