

Contents

Preface .....	V
Acknowledgements .....	VII
Introduction .....	1
Literature Review .....	3
Research Purpose .....	7
Structure of the Thesis .....	8
Theory Framework: Theories of the Firm.....	9
Exchange-Based Theories of the Firm .....	11
Resource-Based Theories of the Firm .....	14
Capabilities-Based Theories.....	17
Conclusion .....	20
On Network Industries.....	23
Product Systems and Modularity .....	24
Attributes of Product Systems .....	25
Modularity in Technology and Organisation.....	27
Principles of Modular System Design .....	29
Economics of Networks.....	31
Network Effects.....	31
Compatibility Standards .....	36
Impacts on Competition .....	42
Conclusion .....	44
Business Webs: Decomposable, Modular Organisations .....	45
Network Forms of Organisation .....	45
Network Firms.....	48
Tightly Coupled Firm Networks .....	49
Loosely-Coupled Firm Networks .....	50
The Nature of Business Webs .....	52
Customer-Centric Product Offering .....	53
Hetrarchical Governance Structure .....	54
Co-opetition between Business Webs Members .....	57
Extensive Usage of Information and Communication Technologies .....	58
Increasing Returns Dynamics.....	58
Conclusion .....	59

Business Web Growth Cases .....	61
Methodology and Research Sites.....	61
Research Methods .....	61
Research Process.....	64
I-Mode: Formation of the Mobile Internet Industry .....	67
Environmental Conditions for DoCoMo.....	68
The I-Mode Business Web.....	69
I-Mode Business Model.....	72
Formation and Early Growth of I-Mode .....	78
Conclusion .....	84
EBay, Inc.: Formation of the Online Person-to-Person Industry.....	85
Environmental Conditions for EBay .....	85
The EBay Business Web.....	86
EBay Business Model.....	88
Establishment and Early Growth of EBay.....	97
Conclusion .....	107
Mini Cases of Other Network Industries .....	108
Formation of the ePaper Business Web .....	108
Formation of the Wintel Business Web .....	111
Formation of the Java Business Web .....	113
Formation of the Payment Card Business Web.....	115
Formation of the Palm Business Web .....	118
Conclusion.....	120
Towards a Theory of Business Web Growth .....	123
Contingencies for the Emergence of Business Webs.....	124
Policy Issues.....	125
Heterogeneity in Customer Demands.....	126
Rapid Technological Change .....	126
Formation of Business Webs .....	128
Institutional Entrepreneurship .....	129
Achieving Legitimacy through Co-operations .....	130
Establishment of a Dominant Design.....	132
Growth of Business Webs: Leverage of External Resources.....	133
Resource Dependencies.....	133
Internal Capabilities: Concentration on Core Competences.....	135
External Capabilities: Linkages with External Resource Contributors .....	136
Value Creation and Value Capture in Business Webs.....	140
Value Creation .....	141
Value Capture .....	141
Control Points .....	142
Conclusion.....	147
Conclusion.....	151
Implication for Practice .....	152
Limitations and Future Prospects .....	153

References ..... 157

Abbreviations..... 175

List of Figures ..... 177

List of Tables..... 179

Index ..... 181

---

<http://www.springer.com/978-3-7908-1552-8>

Formation and Early Growth of Business Webs

Modular Product Systems in Network Markets

Steiner, F.

2005, XI, 185 p. 29 illus., Softcover

ISBN: 978-3-7908-1552-8

A product of Physica-Verlag Heidelberg