

Table of Contents

- Foreword VII
- Preface IX
- Table of Contents XI
- List of Figures XV
- List of Tables XVIII
- List of Abbreviations XX
- 1 Introduction 1
 - 1.1 Motivation and objective 1
 - 1.2 Literature review 4
 - 1.2.1 Shared services in the private sector 5
 - 1.2.2 Shared services in the public sector 8
 - 1.3 Methodology 11
 - 1.3.1 Theoretical perspective 11
 - 1.3.2 Hypothesis generation 12
 - 1.3.3 Empirical research design 13
 - 1.3.4 Descriptive sample statistics 16
 - 1.3.5 Limits to empirical research 20
 - 1.4 Chapter outline 20
- 2 The public sector 23
 - 2.1 Theory of the state 23
 - 2.2 A historical sketch 24
 - 2.3 Public-private distinctions 26
 - 2.3.1 Public good 27
 - 2.3.2 Ownership 27
 - 2.3.3 Funding 29
 - 2.3.4 Public interest 29
 - 2.4 Politics and administration 30
 - 2.4.1 The politics-administration dichotomy 30
 - 2.4.2 Political control 32

- 2.5 Government agencies 34
 - 2.5.1 Bureaucratic organizations 34
 - 2.5.2 Idiosyncrasies of public agencies 42
- 2.6 New public management 46
 - 2.6.1 Origins and characteristics 46
 - 2.6.2 New public management in the US 51
 - 2.6.3 Critical assessment of new public management 53
- 3 Shared services 57
 - 3.1 Decomposition of activities 57
 - 3.1.1 Primary activities 58
 - 3.1.2 Support activities 59
 - 3.2 Definitions 60
 - 3.3 Shared services in the private sector 63
 - 3.3.1 Functional and multi-divisional organizational form 63
 - 3.3.2 Historic predecessors 68
 - 3.3.3 Rise of shared services 81
 - 3.3.4 Evidence 85
 - 3.4 Shared services in the public sector 87
 - 3.4.1 Rationale 87
 - 3.4.2 Evidence 89
 - 3.4.3 Mini case studies 93
- 4 Comparative economic organization of support services: shared services versus government agencies 107
 - 4.1 Comparative advantages and disadvantages of shared services 108
 - 4.1.1 Production costs 109
 - 4.1.2 Transaction costs 115
 - 4.1.3 Political costs 131
 - 4.1.4 Empirical results 132
 - 4.2 Comparative advantages and disadvantages of government agencies 135

- 5 Shared services architecture 139
 - 5.1 Location strategy 139
 - 5.1.1 Concentration..... 140
 - 5.1.2 Location type 142
 - 5.1.3 Site selection 147
 - 5.2 Organizational structure 148
 - 5.2.1 Vertical differentiation 148
 - 5.2.2 Horizontal differentiation..... 166
 - 5.3 Incentive structure 183
 - 5.3.1 Performance measurement and evaluation 183
 - 5.3.2 Rewards 185

- 6 Cost and quality effects of shared services 189
 - 6.1 Cost effect 190
 - 6.1.1 Planned cost effect 190
 - 6.1.2 Total realized cost effect 191
 - 6.1.3 Segment-specific realized cost effect 192
 - 6.1.4 Predictors of realized cost effect 196
 - 6.2 Quality effect..... 204
 - 6.2.1 Planned quality effect..... 204
 - 6.2.2 Total realized quality effect 205
 - 6.2.3 Segment-specific realized quality effect 206
 - 6.2.4 Predictors of realized quality effect 210

- 7 US public sector idiosyncrasies regarding the outsourcing of support services 215
 - 7.1 Background 215
 - 7.2 Inherently governmental activities 217
 - 7.3 Commercial activities 220
 - 7.3.1 Non-competable commercial activities 221
 - 7.3.2 Competable commercial activities 223
 - 7.4 Empirical results..... 227

- 7.4.1 Categorization.....227
- 7.4.2 Outsourced back-office services.....229

- 8 Comparative economic organization of support services: outsourcing versus shared services.....233
 - 8.1 Comparative advantages and disadvantages of an external service
provider233
 - 8.1.1 Production costs.....234
 - 8.1.2 Transaction costs239
 - 8.1.3 Political costs.....266
 - 8.1.4 Empirical results.....267

 - 8.2 Comparative advantages and disadvantages of internal shared services274

- 9 Inter-temporal differences279
 - 9.1 Hypotheses.....279
 - 9.2 Statistical methods280
 - 9.3 Results282
 - 9.3.1 Shared services characteristics.....282
 - 9.3.2 Differences to government agencies284
 - 9.3.3 Shared services architecture.....285
 - 9.3.4 Cost and quality effects291
 - 9.3.5 US public sector idiosyncrasies292
 - 9.3.6 Differences to outsourcing.....292

- 10 Summary297
 - 10.1 Aggregation of research findings.....297
 - 10.2 Potential future research302

- Appendix: Questionnaire.....304

- References313

<http://www.springer.com/978-3-8349-4479-5>

Public Shared Service Centers

A Theoretical and Empirical Analysis of US Public Sector Organizations

Schwarz, G.

2014, XX, 330 p. 62 illus., Softcover

ISBN: 978-3-8349-4479-5