

Contents

| | |
|--|----|
| Introduction | xi |
| 1 Lineages of Learning | 1 |
| Introduction | 1 |
| Diodorus Siculus | 2 |
| Josephus | 3 |
| Proclus | 6 |
| Johannes Regiomontanus | 8 |
| Polydore Vergil | 10 |
| Girolamo Cardano | 12 |
| Melanchthon | 14 |
| Conclusion | 18 |
| 2 Ramus and the History of Mathematics | 19 |
| Introduction | 19 |
| Ramus and the Reform of Dialectic | 20 |
| The Turn to History | 24 |
| Ramus Engages with Mathematics | 25 |
| 3 From Plato to Pythagoras: The Scholae mathematicae | 35 |
| Introduction | 35 |
| The Origins of Mathematics | 38 |
| Ramus and Plato | 42 |
| The Critique of Plato | 46 |
| The Heroes of Mathematical Inquiry | 48 |
| The Institutional Context | 50 |
| Claiming Pythagoras | 56 |
| Pythagoras the Ramist Schoolmaster | 59 |
| Ramus and Charpentier, and the Mathematization of Nature | 68 |
| The Royal Road | 72 |

4 “To Bring Alexandria to Oxford:” Henry Savile’s 1570

Lectures on Ptolemy 75

Introduction 75

The Making of a Mathematician 76

Mathematics at Oxford 79

“An Ordinary Lecturer, That Is, Almost Less Than Nothing” 87

The 1570 Lectures 91

The Place of History in Savile’s Lectures 94

The Origins of Mathematics 99

The Transmission of Mathematics 102

Savile’s Platonism 107

Savile’s Platonic Biography 110

Ramus, Savile and English Science 112

Conclusion 113

5 The Puzzling Lives of Euclid 117

The Veiled Figure 117

Towards a Biography of Euclid 118

Zamberti’s Collection of Sources 121

The Spread of the Megaran Euclid 127

Ramus on the Biography of Euclid 131

Henry Savile’s “Bold” Conjectures 138

The Final Resolution 141

6 Rending Hypatia: The Body of the Elements 143

Introduction 143

Proclus and the Beautiful Body of the Elements 146

The “Commentaries” of Theon 150

Campanus and Zamberti 150

The Divided Elements 154

Borrel’s Dissent 158

Ramus and the Early Date of Proclus 159

Ficino on the Platonic School 161

Proclus Out of Time 164

Ramus’s Historical Critique of the Elements 168

Rending the Elements 170

Henry Savile on Theon and Proclus 173

Contents of Savile’s History of Mathematics 185

Evidence for the Extent of Savile’s Lectures 187

References 191

Index 199

<http://www.springer.com/978-90-481-3541-7>

Defending Hypatia

Ramus, Savile, and the Renaissance Rediscovery of Mathematical History

Goulding, R.

2010, XX, 5 p., Hardcover

ISBN: 978-90-481-3541-7