

Contents

1	Competences and Authority in the European Legal Order	1
1.1	The Division of Competences Between Union and Member States	1
1.2	Beyond Attributed Powers: The Implied Powers Doctrine	7
1.3	Ensuring that the Law Is Observed? The Mandate of the European Court of Justice	13
1.4	Competences and Authority	18
1.5	Legal Power and Integration: Rereading the Maastricht Decision	20
1.6	Conclusion	24
2	Paradigms of Constitution-Making, or Two Tales of One Dualism	25
2.1	Competence and Constitution	26
2.2	Constituent Power and the Primacy of Politics: Sieyès and His Legacy	29
2.3	Tamed Power: Constitutionalism and the Case for Limited Government	37
2.4	Law, State and Democracy: Rereading the Schmitt-Kelsen Debate	43
2.5	The Dualistic View and the Competence Creep	53
2.6	Conclusion	55
3	Rethinking Constituent Power: A Chiastic Alternative	57
3.1	Constituent Power: An Ontology of Creation	58
3.2	Expression: Creation as Metamorphosis	61
3.3	Expression and Historicity	69
3.4	Constitution and Being in the World	72
3.5	Chiastic Constitution in Politics and Law	76
3.6	Conclusion	82
4	Embodying the Rule: The Passivity of Constitution	85
4.1	Auto-Institution and Rule-Following	86
4.2	“How to Take the Next Step”: Rereading Wittgenstein	90

4.3 Following the Trail: Perception in Art 93

4.4 Perception and Rule-Following: The Embodied Subject of Constitution 102

4.5 Rules and Customs: The Furrows of the World 109

4.6 Conclusion 113

5 Constituting Competence: The Court of Justice and the European Legal Order 115

5.1 Situating the European Court of Justice: Preliminary Ruling and Acte Clair 116

5.2 ‘Federal Common Law’ and the Conundrum of Implication Solved 126

5.3 Making European Public Law: A Story of Effectiveness and Loyalty 134

5.4 The Commonality of Traditions: A Court in Search of Human Rights 140

5.5 Constitutionalising Integration: Constitutional
Charter, Constitutional Court 144

5.6 Conclusion 152

Conclusive Summary 153

Bibliography 161

Table of Cases 169

Documents 171

<http://www.springer.com/978-94-007-1033-7>

The Passivity of Law
Competence and Constitution in the European Court of Justice

Corrias, L.

2011, XV, 171 p., Hardcover

ISBN: 978-94-007-1033-7