1.2.1 Scope of the Topics Addressed .......... 3
1.2.2 What This Book Is and What It Is Not ....... 6

Part I Legal and Scientific Constraints on Evidence in Anti-Doping

2 Focus of the Analysis .......................... 11
2.1 Focus on International Doping Cases .......... 11
2.1.1 Reconciling the Universality of Science with the Locality of Law ..................... 12
2.1.2 International Doping Cases Before CAS ........ 21
2.1.3 Importance of Swiss Law in International Doping Cases .................................. 24
2.2 Focus on Evidence Under the 2015 WADC .......... 29
2.2.1 Evidentiary Regime of the WADC .......... 30
2.2.2 Gathering Scientific Evidence through
Doping Control ................................ 37
2.3 Focus on the Interplay of Science and Law .......... 46
2.3.1 Reflections on the Logic of Anti-Doping Programs ... 46
2.3.2 Analytical Science as the Core Source of Scientific Evidence ..................................... 51
2.3.3 Legal Approaches to Anti-Doping Science ....... 56
3 Legal Constraints on Evidence in Anti-Doping
  3.1 Principles Governing Evidence in International Arbitration
    3.1.1 Legal Characterisation of Evidentiary Issues
    3.1.2 Substantive Aspects of Evidence
    3.1.3 Procedural Aspects of Evidence
    3.1.4 Evaluation of Evidence
  3.2 Limits of Private Autonomy in Anti-Doping
    3.2.1 Private Autonomy on Evidentiary Issues
    3.2.2 The Main Limits on Private Autonomy
    3.2.3 Integrated Approach to Consent in Anti-Doping
  3.3 The WADC Evidentiary Regime Demystified
    3.3.1 Anti-Doping Regulations: Private Agreements on Evidence
    3.3.2 Doping Control: Private Gathering of Scientific Evidence

4 Scientific Constraints on Evidence in Anti-Doping
  4.1 Role(s) of Science in the Fight Against Doping
    4.1.1 Anti-Doping Regulations as “Science-Based Law”
    4.1.2 Defining “Science” in a Legal Context
  4.2 Interplay Between Science and Law
    4.2.1 Challenges of Law in the Face of Science
    4.2.2 Evidentiary Mechanisms to Overcome These Challenges
  4.3 Mutual Influences Between Science and Law
    4.3.1 Scientists in the Judicial Process
    4.3.2 Lawyers in the Realm of Science
  4.4 Roadmap to a Combined Scientific and Legal Approach
    4.4.1 Consent?: Yes, But…
    4.4.2 Scientific Foundations as the Key Factor

Part II Science in the WADC Evidentiary Regime

5 Doping Control—Gathering Scientific Evidence for Legal Purposes
   5.1 Operational Framework of Doping Control
     5.1.1 Scientific Participants in Doping Control
     5.1.2 Technical Rules Governing Evidence-Gathering in Doping Control
   5.2 Procedural Defects in Doping Control
     5.2.1 Importance of Procedural Defects Under the WADC
     5.2.2 General “Presumption” of Adherence to Applicable Procedures
5.2.3 Materiality of Procedural Defects .......................... 301
5.2.4 “False Positives” and the Risk of Hazard ................. 317

5.3 Suggestions for a Sound Gathering of Evidence in Doping Control .................................................. 329
5.3.1 Real Stakes: Admissibility of Scientific Evidence in the Judicial Process ............................................ 330
5.3.2 Soundness of the Current Distribution of the Burden of Proof ............................................. 332
5.3.3 Effects of Procedural Defects on the Outcome of the Process .................................................... 337
5.3.4 Fallibility of Analytical Science Over and Above Procedural Defects ................................. 341

6 Analytical Science—Approaches in “Traditional”
Doping Control ..................................................... 343
6.1 Technology Race versus Mastery of Existing Technologies .... 343
6.1.1 “State-of-the-Art” Policy in the WADC Regime ........ 344
6.1.2 Attempts to Reduce Discrepancies in Analytical Science ............................................ 349
6.2 Zero Tolerance versus Complexity of Analytical Science .... 356
6.2.1 Scientific Justification for Zero Tolerance
Under the WADC .................................................. 356
6.2.2 Formal and Concealed Limits to the Zero
Tolerance Rule ..................................................... 359
6.2.3 Deceptive Absoluteness of Adverse Analytical Findings ............................................................. 371
6.2.4 Evidentiary Significance of the B Sample
Confirmation ....................................................... 390
6.3 Scientific Innovation versus Legal Scrutiny .................... 409
6.3.1 Approaches to Scientific Innovation in the WADC Regime .......................................... 409
6.3.2 Evolution in CAS Judicial Review of Analytical Science ........................................... 412 6.3.3 New Presumption of Scientific Validity for the 2015 WADC ............................................... 419
6.3.4 Discussion on the Soundness of the New Presumption ......................................................... 427
6.4 Evidentiary Strength of Traditional Doping Control in Question ......................................................... 431
6.4.1 Gap Between Original Pillars of the WADC Regime and Current Realities ............................................ 431
6.4.2 Blurring Evidentiary Value of Adverse
Analytical Findings ............................................... 433
6.4.3 Struggle to Fit Scientific Issues into a Manageable
Legal Framework .................................................. 435
7 Standardisation in Anti-Doping—Science versus Evidentiary Pragmatism

7.1 WADA Prohibited List—Scientific or Political Tool?

7.1.1 Scientific Foundations of the Prohibited List

7.1.2 Combining Scientific Flexibility with Legal Stability of the Prohibition

7.2 Impact on Sports Performance—A Forced Irrelevance?

7.2.1 Limited Relevance of Performance Enhancement

7.2.2 “Automatic” Disqualification as a Corrective Measure

7.2.3 Other Hybrid Types of Disqualification

7.2.4 Greater Consistency in the Approach to Performance Enhancement for Disqualification

7.3 Role of Fault—A Matter of Evidentiary Convenience?

7.3.1 Fault-Related Components of the WADC Regime

7.3.2 Strict Liability Rule Under the WADC

7.3.3 Presumed Fault for Disciplinary Sanctions

7.3.4 Need for Ongoing Monitoring and Re-evaluation

8 Scientific Evidence in CAS Arbitration for Doping Disputes

8.1 Dealing with Scientific Evidence in Doping Disputes

8.1.1 Freedom of Evidence in Doping Disputes

8.1.2 Restrictions on the Freedom of Evidence in Doping Disputes

8.2 Access to Scientific Documentation for the Athlete

8.2.1 Access to Scientific Documentation Based on the WADC Regime

8.2.2 Athlete Rights to Further Scientific Documentation

8.2.3 Consequences for the Evaluation of the Evidence

8.3 Doping Disputes: An Expert’s Business

8.3.1 Expert Independence in Doping Disputes

8.3.2 Methods for Managing Expert Evidence in Doping Disputes

8.3.3 Evaluation of Expert Evidence in Doping Disputes

8.4 CAS Panels and Scientific Evidence—Caution Required

8.4.1 Restrictions on Athletes’ Access to Scientific Evidence

8.4.2 Search for Proficient and Independent Scientific Experts

8.4.3 Control and Evaluation of Expert Evidence
