

Contents

1 Introduction	1
1.1 Aspects in Discussion and Their Respective Salience	1
1.2 The Kam People, Language, and Their Homeland	2
1.3 The Kam Autonym and Kam History	3
1.4 Religion	5
1.5 Kam Language and Orthography	6
1.5.1 Genetic Affiliation	6
1.5.2 Dialectology	6
1.5.3 Phonology	8
1.5.4 Phrase Structure and Syntax	10
1.5.5 Kam Orthography	10
1.6 Summary	12
2 Research Questions and Framework	13
2.1 Scope of This Present Research	13
2.2 Literature Review	14
2.3 Schiffrin’s Five-Plane Discourse Model	16
2.4 Summary	17
3 Data and Data Collection	19
3.1 Yutou Kam Community	19
3.1.1 Geographical and Administrative Information	19
3.1.2 History and Internal Clan Structure	20
3.1.3 As a Major Historical and Cultural Sites Under National Protection	21
3.1.4 Language Use	22
3.1.5 Oral Literature	23
3.2 Storytelling Events	23
3.2.1 Location and Time—the Where and When	23
3.2.2 Participants: The Narrators and the Hearers—the Who	25
3.2.3 Stages of Folktale Narrating—the How and What	26

3.2.4	The Social and Cultural Functions of Folktale Narrating—the Why	27
3.2.5	The Decoys on Scene	28
3.3	Data Collecting and Processing	30
3.4	The Salience of the Two Selected Narratives	31
3.5	Summary of the Recorded Narrative Data in LINGUALINKS	32
3.5.1	Summary of the Three Friends (TF)	32
3.5.2	Summary of the Sky Repairing (SR)	32
3.6	Summary	33
4	Analysis	35
4.1	Analysis of Discourse Conditioned Phonological and Grammatical Variations	35
4.1.1	Introduction	35
4.1.2	A New Phoneme /ə/	36
4.1.3	Discourse Induced Reduction of Directional Verbs	39
4.1.4	Classifier Variants and Pronoun Modifiers of Kinship Terms in Discourse	47
4.1.5	Word Order Variations in Discourse	60
4.2	Sentence-Final Particles (SFP) in Narrative Discourse	68
4.2.1	Introduction	68
4.2.2	The Inventory of Kam SFPs	69
4.2.3	Phonological and Syntactic Features of SFPs	73
4.2.4	Functions of Individual SFPs in Discourse	81
4.2.5	SFPs and Discourse Markers (DM)	96
4.3	Structure of Narrative and Functions of Repetition	100
4.3.1	Labov's Six-Part Model of Narrative and Application in Kam	100
4.3.2	Some Discourse Grammatical Characteristics of Narrative	107
4.4	Communicative Aspects of Narrating	113
4.4.1	Narrating as Communicational Social Interaction	114
4.4.2	Input from Non-decoy Audience	116
4.4.3	Communication Operator lja ³¹	117
4.5	Summary	121
5	Conclusion	123
5.1	Stated Goals and Findings	123
5.2	Strengths, Weaknesses, and Limitations of the Present Study	124
5.3	Recommendations for Future Research	125
	Full Lingualinks Version of Sky Repairing	127
	Full Lingualinks Version of Three Friends	223
	Postscripts	307
	References	309

<http://www.springer.com/978-981-10-2262-3>

A Grammar of Kam Revealed in Its Narrative Discourse

Yang, T.

2017, VIII, 314 p. 13 illus., 2 illus. in color., Hardcover

ISBN: 978-981-10-2262-3