

Contents

1 Introduction	1
Research on Teaching: Research for Teacher Education	2
A Growing Need for Research On and About Teacher Education	3
Studying the Effectiveness of Teacher Education (SETE): Our Approach	7
Overview of the Structure of the Book	9
References	10
2 Studying the Effectiveness of Teacher Education	13
Introduction	13
An Emerging Agenda for Teacher Education	16
Changing Lenses: A Spatial Approach to Research in Teacher Education	17
The Conceived Space	18
Perceived Space	19
The Lived Space	20
A Spatial Approach to Research Design: Touchstones for Researchers	22
Conclusion	24
References	25
3 Research Approach	27
Complexity and Teacher Education Research Design	28
Mixed Methods	29
A Longitudinal Recursive Design for a Complex Problem	30
A Focus on Perceptions	31
Mapping Initial Teacher Education	32
Development of the SETE Survey Datasets	33
Surveys	34

Surveys of Graduate Teachers and Their Principals	35
Point-in-Time Graduate Teacher Surveys	36
Graduate Teacher Survey Content	36
Survey Sub-scales	37
Survey Participant Profiles	38
Personal Characteristics	38
Longitudinal Sample of Graduate Teachers	39
Principal Survey	40
Principal Survey Content	40
Survey Analysis	41
Cross-Survey Analysis	42
Longitudinal Analysis	43
Qualitative Case Studies	44
Recruitment of Participants	44
The Participants	44
The Early Career Teachers	45
School Leaders	45
Interview Structure	46
Interview Questions	46
Reflexive Interviewing	47
Cross-Case Study Analysis	47
Complexity Theory as an Analytical Frame for Mixed Methods Teacher Education Research	48
References	49
4 How Well Equipped are Graduates to Meet the Requirements of the Diverse Settings in Which They are Employed?	53
Introduction	53
New Tools for Investigating a Complex and Diverse System of Teacher Education	54
The Target Population of the SETE Study	55
Principal Survey	56
Demographic Data	58
Diversity in Australian School Contexts and Its Impact on Beginning Teachers	58
Graduate Teacher and Principal Means for Overall Effectiveness	59
Graduate Teachers and Principal Perceptions of Effectiveness and Preparedness in Diverse Settings	60
Influence on Student Learning and Perceptions of Preparedness and Effectiveness	62
Changes Over Time in Graduate Teachers and Their Knowledge Base for Diverse Settings	64
The Relationship Between Student Learning Outcomes, and Models and Attributes of Teacher Education Programs	65

Characteristics of Teacher Education Programs Which Are Most Effective in Preparing Teachers to Work in a Variety of School Settings	66
The Relationship Between Perceptions of Preparedness and Selected Teacher Characteristics, School Characteristics and Perceptions of Preparedness and Program Characteristics	68
Graduate Teachers and Their Knowledge Base for Diverse Settings	68
Professional Knowledge	70
Geography and Preparedness	72
Conclusion	73
References	73
5 What Characteristics of Teacher Education Programs Are Most Effective in Preparing Teachers to Work in a Variety of Schools?	77
Interrogating Initial Teacher Education Programs: Unlocking the Black Box	79
What Does the Research Currently Tell Us?	79
Examining Structural Characteristics Across ITE Programs	81
Program Length	81
Program Location and Mode of Study	83
Program Qualification	85
Comparing Coursework to Practicum: Looking Closely at Theory and Practice	85
Practicum	87
Length and Timing of Practicum	89
School-University Partnerships	90
Selection of Pre-service Teachers into a University Program	90
Coursework and University Curriculum: An Exploration of the Substantive Features of ITE Programs	91
Reflections on the Best of Initial Teacher Education	91
Improvements to Be Made to Initial Teacher Education	92
Conclusion	94
References	96
6 Employment Pathways, Mobility and Retention of Graduate Teachers	99
A Situated Perspective on Employment, Retention, Mobility and Attrition of Beginning Teachers	100
What Does the Demographic and Teacher Education Profile of Graduate Teacher Tell Us?	101
Employment Pathways as Ways of ‘Utilizing’ Graduate Teachers	104

Teacher Mobility 105

Why Do Beginning Teachers Leave? 110

Retaining Beginning Teachers 114

Conclusion 115

References 116

7 Learning Teaching and Doing Teaching in New Hybrid Spaces 121

Recap of the Context and Purpose of the Study 121

Recap of Main Findings and Related Implications for Teacher Education Practice 124

Moving Beyond Manipulating Policy Parameters and Increasing Accreditation Demands 126

Teacher Education in a Third Hybrid Space: Partnerships and Classroom Ready Are not the Destination 129

Transitional Teacher Education: A Third Space Laboratory 131

Further Research 133

References 135

<http://www.springer.com/978-981-10-3928-7>

Studying the Effectiveness of Teacher Education

Early Career Teachers in Diverse Settings

Mayer, D.; Dixon, M.; Kline, J.; Kostogriz, A.; Moss, J.;

Rowan, L.; Walker-Gibbs, B.; White, S.

2017, XII, 136 p. 9 illus., Hardcover

ISBN: 978-981-10-3928-7