

New Femininities in Digital, Physical and Sporting Cultures Call for Proposals

Series Editors: Kim Toffoletti, Deakin University Australia,
Jessica Francombe-Webb, University of Bath, UK,
Holly Thorpe, University of Waikato, New Zealand.

Editorial Board

Prof Sarah Banet-Weiser, UCLA

Prof Jinxia Dong, Beijing

Prof Simone Fullagar, Bath

Prof Anna Hickey-Moody, RMIT

Prof Pirkko Markula, Alberta

Dr Aarti Ratna, Leeds Beckett

A.Prof Roberta Sassatelli, Milan

Dr Sertac Sehlirkoglu, Cambridge

Prof Shirley Tate, Leeds Beckett

ABOUT THE SERIES

Palgrave's New Femininities in Digital, Physical and Sporting Cultures series is dedicated to exploring emerging forms and expressions of femininity, feminist activism and politics in an increasingly global, consumer and digital world. Books in this series focus on the latest conceptual, methodological and theoretical developments in feminist thinking about bodies, movement, physicality, leisure and technology to understand and problematize new framings of feminine embodiment. Globally inclusive, and featuring established and emerging scholars from multi-disciplinary fields, the series is characterized by an interest in advancing research and scholarship concerning women's experiences of physical culture in a variety of cultural contexts.

CONTACT FOR PROPOSALS

We welcome proposals from scholars working across disciplinary boundaries including sport, education, health, sociology, management, media, cultural, youth, postcolonial and gender studies. Please contact the series editors or Sharla Plant Publisher, sociology and social policy sharla.plant@palgrave.com, for more details.

The series editors can be contacted by email to discuss proposals at kim.toffoletti@deakin.edu.au;
j.m.francombe-webb@bath.ac.uk;
and holly.thorpe@waikato.ac.nz.

<http://www.springer.com/series/15874>

New Femininities in Digital, Physical and Sporting Cultures

Series Editors: Toffoletti, K.; Francombe-Webb, J.; Thorpe, H.

ISSN: 2522-0330