Continuous Article Publishing (CAP)

In employing CAP, all accepted articles are immediately published in an issue. However, instead of there being consecutive pagination of articles throughout a volume, each article has an internal pagination beginning with page 1 and every article has an Article Citation ID number. This unique article identifier will be visible on every page of an article and will replace the page numbers in the citation line.

As a result, all articles have their full and final citation information available as soon as the production process is complete and since the articles are be published online immediately in their final form, the overall publication time for articles has become shorter.
