2009 Digestive Disease Week®

CALL FOR ABSTRACTS

Present your research at the largest and most prestigious event in the field of digestive diseases.

If you work in gastroenterology, hepatology, GI endoscopy or GI surgery, don’t miss the chance to present your research at Digestive Disease Week (DDW®) 2009.

DDW is the world’s largest educational forum for academicians, clinicians, researchers and students working in the field of digestive diseases. Nearly 16,000 GI professionals attend each year to review the latest and best basic, clinical and translational research from around the world.

Make sure your research is a part of this influential meeting. The abstract submission period begins Thursday, September 25, 2008 at 9:00 am ET and ends Monday, December 1, 2008 at 9:00 pm ET. All abstracts must be submitted online at www.ddw.org. Those that are accepted will be published in the April 2009 supplement to either Gastroenterology or GIE: Gastrointestinal Endoscopy.

Submit your abstract online at www.ddw.org.