Studies in Comparative International Development Instructions for Authors

Studies in Comparative International Development (SCID) (ISSN 0039-3606) is an interdisciplinary journal that addresses issues concerning political, social, economic, and environmental change in local, national, and international contexts. Among its major emphases are political and state institutions; the effects of a changing international economy; political-economic models of growth and distribution; and the transformation of social structure and culture.

The journal has a tradition of presenting critical and innovative analytical perspectives that challenge prevailing orthodoxies. It publishes original research articles on the developing world and is open to all theoretical and methodical approaches.

Word count for all submissions should not exceed 10,000 words including notes, references, tables and figures. The abstract is not included in the word count. Longer submissions will not be considered. Authors may include further material in an online appendix.

SUBMISSION GUIDELINES

1. Submission is a representation that the manuscript has not been published previously and is not currently under consideration for publication elsewhere. A statement transferring copyright from the authors (or their employers, if they hold the copyright) to Studies in Comparative International Development will be required before the manuscript can be accepted for publication.

2. Manuscripts and accompanying materials may be submitted in a wide range of supported file formats, including: MS Word, WordPerfect, RTF, TXT, TIFF, GIF, JPEG, EPS, LaTeX2E, TeX, Postscript, PICT, Excel, Tar, Zip, and Powerpoint. PDF is not an acceptable file format. Manuscripts must be double-spaced, leaving margins of at least 1." Manuscript length should be reasonable for the contribution offered.

3. A title page is to be provided and should include the title of the article, author’s name (no degrees), author’s affiliation, and suggested running head. The affiliation should comprise the department, institution (usually university or company), city, and state (or nation). For office purposes, the title page should include the email address and telephone number of the one author designated to review proofs.

4. An abstract, no longer than 200 words, is to be provided on a separate page.

5. A list of 4–5 key words is to be provided directly below the abstract. Key words should express the precise content of the manuscript, as they are used for indexing purposes.
6. American rather than British spellings should be used (e.g., labor vs. labour; while vs. whilst; democratization vs. democratisation; center vs. centre). If foreign spellings appear as part of quoted material or titles, leave as is.

Single quotation marks should be used only when a quotation appears within another quotation.

It may be helpful to run a spell check using the American dictionary in MS Word.

7. Mathematical notation should be typewritten wherever possible. If handwritten notation must be used, it should be clear and legible, with any necessary explanatory notes located in the margin. Equations should be numbered consecutively with Arabic numerals in parentheses and should be referred to in the text. Equation references in the text should be abbreviated such as: As shown in Eq. (5), the model ...

8. All sections should be in boldface type (such as Introduction). Subsections should be in normal type (such as Second−Value Subheading). An independent single number system (one for each category) should be used to label all theorems, propositions, corollaries, definitions, remarks, examples, etc. The label (such as Theorem 4) should be typed with paragraph indentation, followed by a period and the theorem itself.

9. Figures or illustrations (photographs, drawings, diagrams, and charts), are to be numbered in one consecutive series of Arabic numerals (e.g., Fig. 3). The captions for illustrations should be typed on a separate sheet of paper. Figures should be prepared with some clear, high contrast process (e.g., laser printer). Either original drawings or good quality photographic prints are acceptable. Figure captions are abbreviated (e.g., Fig. 3. Time series plot).

10. Tables should be numbered (preferably with Arabic numerals) and referred to by number in the text (without abbreviation). Each table should be typed on a separate sheet of paper.

11. Citations within the text should be styled as: Jones (1987) or (Jones, 1987), whichever is appropriate. Where there are three or more authors, only the first author’s name is given in the text, followed by et al. (e.g., Jones et al. 1983). Specific page citations in the text should be styled as: Jones (1987: 108–109) or (Jones 1987: 118–119).

12. Punctuation and style of the references should conform to that illustrated by the following examples:

   1. Journal article

2. Journal article with DOI included

3. Journal article in a supplement

4. Book chapter

5. Book, authored
