Two-part essays, each part able to stand alone, and totaling no more than 50 pages, will be considered. In the "Forum" section the Journal welcomes non-polemical responses to its recent essays or reviews, limited to 10 typed pages. "Reports" are published of major scholarly conferences and other activities in the field of values, limited to 15 typed pages. "Survey" articles on themes in value inquiry and essays on "Classical revisited" are generally invited.

In addition to "Book reviews" of recent publications, the Journal welcomes short "Second look" essays on neglected books and full-length "Review articles" on major recent works. "Interviews" and "Dialogues" are organized by the Editors, involving outstanding contributors to the field. The Journal publishes "Special issues" on major topics, as well as shorter "Symposium" treatments. The language of the journal is English.

Online Manuscript Submission

Manuscripts submitted to INQU must be offered exclusively to the Journal and prior to publication, accepted articles must conform to the formatting requirements as stated below.

Authors, editors and reviewers of INQU can now make use of Editorial Manager, Springer's fully web-enabled online manuscript submission and review system. To keep the review time as short as possible (no postal delays!), we encourage authors to submit manuscripts online. Editorial Manager offers authors the option of tracking the progress of the review process of manuscripts in real time.

Editorial Manager offers easy and straightforward log-in and submission procedures. This system supports a wide range of submission file formats: for manuscripts - Word, WordPerfect, RTF, TXT and LaTeX; for figures - TIFF, GIF, JPEG, EPS, PPT, and Postscript.

NOTE: By using Editorial Manager, it is NOT necessary to submit the manuscript also in printout + disk. In case you encounter any difficulties while submitting your manuscript on line, please get in touch with the responsible Editorial Assistant by clicking on "CONTACT US" from the tool bar.

Style/Format

1. Manuscripts must be submitted electronically through Editorial Manager with double spacing in 12pt font throughout, including block quotes and notes. All pages should be numbered consecutively starting from the cover sheet as page 1.
2. Articles may have sections, with the headers of the sections numbered with regular Arabic numerals and the leading letters other than prepositions and conjunctions capitalized. Sectioning should not be excessive and sub-sections generally avoided. The first paragraph and paragraphs directly under section headers should not be indented. All other paragraphs should be indented. Extra line spaces should be included before new section headings but there should be no extra line spaces between paragraphs.
3. All references should be made in notes that appear as endnotes in a final section titled Notes. In the body of the text, the note numbers are to be superscripted and placed at the end of a sentence with only one note number per sentence. In the Notes section, the note numbers are to be kept as regular, full-sized numbers, not superscripted and followed by a period, with the body of the note indented as a block. Full bibliographic information should be given with "See" used for references that are not for quotes. Please reserve endnotes for citation only, and avoid discussion in endnotes. "Ibid." and "op. cit." should be used where appropriate:
Michael Slote, Morals from Motives (Oxford: Oxford University Press, 2001), p. 24.
Ibid., p. 45.
See S. Mathew Liao, "The Idea of a Duty to Love," The Journal of Value Inquiry, Vol. 40, No. 1, (2006).
John Rawls, "Social Unity and Primary Goods," in Samuel Freeman, ed., Collected Papers (Cambridge, Mass.: Harvard University Press, 1999), p. 362.
See Slote, op. cit., pp. 136-139.
4. Except in contexts of direct quotation:
Remove all scare quotes. Omit the quotation marks and keep the word or phrase; omit the word or phrase; change the word or phrase to a word or phrase with precisely the right meaning; or precede the word or phrase with "so-called," "ostensible," or "purported." Reserve quotation marks for quoting and the use-mention distinction.

Do not use verbs of action with subjects that cannot act. Rewrite all instances of phrases such as “this paper argues,” “the argument assumes,” “utilitarianism says,” “deontology holds,” or “Platonism concludes.”

Do not use the slash mark, as in “and/or” or “he/she.”

Use American spellings and American quotation conventions. In Word, set the language to “English (U.S).” Place all commas and periods inside quotation marks, except when doing so would result in two punctuation marks together.

5. References to books should include the author’s name, full title, place of publication, publisher’s name, and date of publication.

6. References to journals should include the author’s name, full title within quotation marks, name of the journal, volume number, year of publication, followed by the page(s) to which reference is being made. Follow the format, shown below:

Does Springer provide English language support?

Manuscripts that are accepted for publication will be checked by our copyeditors for spelling and formal style. This may not be sufficient if English is not your native language and substantial editing would be required. In that case, you may want to have your manuscript edited by a native speaker prior to submission. A clear and concise language will help editors and reviewers concentrate on the scientific content of your paper and thus smooth the peer review process. The following editing service provides language editing for scientific articles in all areas Springer publishes in.

Use of an editing service is neither a requirement nor a guarantee of acceptance for publication.

Please contact the editing service directly to make arrangements for editing and payment.
