

Journal Title Change Announcement

As a peer-reviewed journal for original research articles as well as review articles in all areas of geochemistry, Chinese Journal of Geochemistry has been well-known in Chinese geochemical society since 1982. To further increase its international representation the editorial board has decided to change the journal title to Acta Geochimica, starting with the first issue in 2016. .

Acta Geochimica serves as an international forum of fundamental research on geochemistry, the science that uses the tools and principles of chemistry to understand mechanisms and to quantify processes of major geological systems such as the Earth's crust, oceans, atmosphere, or the entire Solar System. The journal focuses on, but is not limited to the aspects of cosmochemistry, mantle geochemistry, ore-deposit geochemistry, organic geochemistry, environmental geochemistry, computational geochemistry, isotope geochemistry, and mineral-interface geochemistry.

All research articles published in this journal have undergone rigorous peer review. In addition to original research articles, Acta Geochimica publishes comprehensive reviews of emerging topics in all the areas of geochemistry as well as short communications of timely interest.

Manuscripts should be submitted through website (<http://www.springer.com/earth+sciences+and+geography/geochemistry/journal/11631>) or email (geochem@vip.gyig.ac.cn). Once a manuscript has been accepted for publication, it will undergo language copyediting, typesetting, and reference validation to ensure a high-quality publication. Published paper will be available free of charge on open access (the open-access fee is covered by the editorial office).

Please do not hesitate to contact us or Dr. LIU Yun, Executive Editor (Liuyun@vip.gyig.ac.cn) if you have questions.
