

Important Information for Contributors

The American Journal of Psychoanalysis invites contributions from scholars and practitioners in the psychoanalysis and related fields. Original articles must be offered for exclusive publication. The Editors reserve the right to reject any manuscript submitted, whether on invitation or on the initiative of the writer, and to make whatever suggestions for change as deemed necessary for publication.

According to the 1978 U.S. Copyright Law, the transfer of copyright from author to publisher must be explicit. Authors of articles accepted for publication will receive the necessary form for signature. Authors are fully responsible for statements made in their articles. Published articles do not necessarily reflect the views of the Association for the Advancement of Psychoanalysis.

Preparation and Submission of Manuscripts: Original papers (of no more than 30 pages, including references) will be considered for publication and should be submitted to the Editor (see below). All manuscripts will be blind peer-reviewed to maintain the highest quality and to verify relevance, accuracy, and clarity of presentation. Manuscripts must be typed double-spaced on 8½ × 11 in. bond paper with 1½ in. margins on all sides of the page. The original and four copies must be submitted; one copy must be retained by the author, as the journal cannot be responsible for manuscripts.

The title page should include full names of authors, degrees, academic and professional affiliations, the complete mailing address, telephone number, fax number, and e-mail address of the author to whom page proofs are to be sent.

The second page should contain the title of the paper and an abstract of no more than 100 words as well as 3 to 5 key words listed below the abstract.

The 2001 Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association (Fifth Edition) should be used as a guide in preparation of manuscripts: Manuscript pages must be numbered consecutively. Footnotes are to be avoided if possible. When their use is absolutely necessary, footnotes should be numbered consecutively using Arabic numbers and should be typed at the end of the article, preceding the References section. References are cited by name and year in the text. They must be typed double-spaced on a separate sheet, and arranged in alphabetical order by first author; do not number. Several references by the same author should be listed in chronological order (if the same year, use a, b, c, etc., after the year). Name(s) of author(s) must be followed by the year of the original publication (in parentheses), the title, the name of the publication, volume number, and beginning and end pages. Publisher's name and city of publication are required for books. The year of publication of the edition used must be included when different from the original publication year.

After a manuscript has been accepted for publication and after all revisions have been incorporated, manuscripts should be submitted to the Editor's Office as hard copy accompanied by electronic files on disk. Label the disk with identifying information — software, journal name, and first author's last name. The disk must be the one from which the accompanying manuscript (finalized version) was printed out. The Editor's Office cannot accept a disk without its accompanying, matching hard-copy manuscript. Electronic artwork submitted on disk should be in the TIFF or EPS format (1200 dpi for line and 300 dpi for half-tones and gray-scale art). Color art should be in the CMYK color space. Artwork should be on a separate disk from the text, and hard copy must accompany the disk.

Correspondence and Book Reviews: The American Journal of Psychoanalysis welcomes relevant responses to papers published in the journal, as well as concise reviews (up to 700 words) of current psychoanalytic books.

Address Manuscripts, Correspondence, Books for review, and Book Reviews to: Giselle Galdi, Ph.D., Editor, The American Journal of Psychoanalysis, 329 East 62nd Street, New York, NY 10021, USA.

Springer Open Choice. In addition to the normal publication process (whereby an article is submitted to the journal and access to that article is granted to customers who have purchased a subscription), Springer now provides an alternative publishing option: Springer Open Choice. A Springer Open Choice article receives all the benefits of a regular subscription-based article, but in addition is made available publicly through Springer's online platform SpringerLink. To publish via Springer Open Choice, upon acceptance please visit www.springeronline.com/openchoice to complete the relevant order form and provide the required payment information. Payment must be received in full before publication or articles will publish as regular subscription-model articles. We regret that Springer Open Choice cannot be ordered for published articles.
