History

This journal, the oldest scientific periodical in Italy, was originally edited by Barnaba Tortolini and Francesco Brioschi and has appeared since 1850. Nowadays it is managed by a nonprofit organization, the Fondazione Annali di Matematica Pura ed Applicata, c.o. Dipartimento di Matematica "U. Dini", viale Morgagni 67A, 50134 Firenze, Italy, e-mail annali@math.unifi.it).

A board of Italian university professors governs the Fondazione and appoints the editors of the journal, whose responsibility it is to supervise the refereeing process. The names of governors and editors appear on the front page of each issue. Their addresses appear in the title pages of each issue.

The publication of the journal is in its fourth series:

- The first series, published in Rome between 1850 and 1866, comprised 15 volumes:

Vol. 1 (1850) – Vol. 8 (1857) were published under the title "Annali di Scienze Matematiche e Fisiche", founded by Barnaba Tortolini. (This journal is a continuation of a preceding journal entitled "Raccolta di lettere ed altri scritti intorno alla fisica ed alle matematiche", published in Rome as follows: Vol. 1 (1845) – Vol. 5 (1849)).
