Cuatro Ciénegas Basin: An Endangered Hyperdiverse Oasis

Series Editors: V. Souza, L. Eguiarte

This book series describes the diversity, ecology, evolution, anthropology, archeology and geology of an unusually diverse site in the desert that is paradoxically one of the most phosphorus-poor sites that we know of. The aim of each book is to promote critical thinking and not only explore the natural history, ecology, evolution and conservation of the oasis, but also consider various scenarios to unravel the mystery of why this site is the only one of its kind on the planet, how it evolved, and how it has survived for so long.
