FOM-Edition Research

Series Ed.:

FOM University of Applied Sciences, in close cooperation with recognized European universities, offers extra-occupational doctoral programs to very good master's graduates. This series of publications provides the framework for making excellent dissertations from these doctoral programs accessible to the interested professional public. Thus, the series makes it possible for the empirical results, innovative concepts and well-founded analyses from the field of economics to be widely recognized and to enrich the scientific discourse.

Apart from this series, FOM University of Applied Sciences founded a scientific publication series, the FOM-Edition, which is specifically dedicated to the publication projects of its lecturers. The FOM-Edition is divided into the following sections: textbooks, case study books, specialist books, and an international subseries.
