Borderline Personality Disorder and Emotion Dysregulation
Editor-in-Chief: M. Bohus; J.M. Oldham; C. Schmahl

- Publishes high quality research into emotion dysregulation, Borderline Personality Disorder, and related disorders.
- The only journal to focus on Borderline Personality Disorder.
- The official journal of the Dachverband Dialektisch Behaviorale Therapie (DDBT), the European Society for the Study of Personality Disorders (ESSPD), and the National Education Alliance for Borderline Personality Disorder (NEA.BPD).

Borderline Personality Disorder and Emotion Dysregulation focuses on the psychological, social and neurobiological aspects of emotion dysregulation and borderline personality disorder. As an open access, online journal affiliated with the European Society for the Study of Personality Disorders (ESSPD), the National Education Alliance for Borderline Personality Disorder (NEA.BPD), and the Dachverband Dialektisch Behaviorale Therapie (DDBT), BPDED provides a high visibility forum for the fast dissemination of high quality research across a range of disciplines, from genetics and pathophysiology, to treatment and epidemiology.

Giving authors in their area of expertise the opportunity to publish open access
- High visibility thanks to unrestricted online access
- Rigorous peer-review and high-quality author services
- Creative Commons licensed – authors retain copyright
- Citation tracking and inclusion in bibliographic databases
- Easy compliance with open access mandates