

Studies in Linguistics and Philosophy

Series Editors: C. Condoravdi, Z. Szabo, O. Percus

The SLAP series is dedicated to the study of meaning in natural language, with an emphasis on formal approaches. It thus serves as a forum for research in semantics, philosophy of language, pragmatics and related disciplines. As such, it has played an important role in the development of the field of formal semantics. The series is associated with the journal Linguistics and Philosophy:

SLAP publishes monographs and edited volumes. For information on how to submit a proposal for a volume, please contact the assistant editor, Anita Rachmat, E-mail: Anita.Rachmat@springer.com. Proposals could address issues relating to any of the following:

- philosophical theories of meaning, truth, and reference and foundational questions of their scientific study
- linguistic theories of lexical semantics, compositional semantics, discourse structure, speech acts, and semantic change
- psycholinguistic theories of semantic interpretation and its relation to different cognitive faculties
- mathematical and logical properties of natural language
