Ethics Dumping

Case Studies from North-South Research Collaborations

Series: SpringerBriefs in Research and Innovation Governance

- Is a unique, up-to-date source book for case studies in exploitative North-South research collaborations
- Written by high-profile, international authors
- Provides a voice to vulnerable populations from low and middle-income countries
- Features an endorsement and foreword from the European Commission's Head of the Ethics and Integrity Sector

This open access book provides original, up-to-date case studies of "ethics dumping" that were largely facilitated by loopholes in the ethics governance of low and middle-income countries. It is instructive even to experienced researchers since it provides a voice to vulnerable populations from the fore mentioned countries. Ensuring the ethical conduct of North-South collaborations in research is a process fraught with difficulties. The background conditions under which such collaborations take place include extreme differentials in available income and power, as well as a past history of colonialism, while differences in culture can add a new layer of complications. In this context, up-to-date case studies of unethical conduct are essential for research ethics training.
