Story in Children's Lives: Contributions of the Narrative Mode to Early Childhood Development, Literacy, and Learning

Series: Educating the Young Child

- Explores innovative ideas and applications of stories beyond typical school-based practices
- Offers an expansive view of stories as multimodal texts influencing all developmental areas
- Offers practical applications of research-based strategies in early childhood settings

This book is based on the power of stories to support children in all areas of their lives. It examines the role narratives can play in encouraging growth in contexts and domains such as personal and family identity, creative movement, memory and self-concept, social relationships, or developing a sense of humor. Each chapter describes innovative and research-based applications of narratives such as movement stories, visual narratives to develop historical thinking, multimodal storytelling, bibliotherapy, mathematics stories, family stories, and social narratives. The chapters elaborate on the strength of narratives in supporting the whole child in diverse contexts from young children on the autism spectrum improving their social skills at school, to four- and five-year-olds developing historical thinking, to children who are refugees or asylum-seekers dealing with uncertainty and loss. Written by accomplished teachers, researchers, specialists, teaching artists and teacher educators from several countries and backgrounds, the book fills a gap in the literature on narratives.
