Social Sciences : Migration

Aybek, C.M., Huinink, J., Muttarak, R. (Eds.)

Spatial Mobility, Migration, and Living Arrangements

- Combination of new empirical studies on mobility and migration that employ original research designs, methodological approaches and theoretical concepts
- Up-to-date research that covers important subjects in various realms of mobility and migration research, family life course transitions, and cross-country comparisons
- A unique endeavour to combine and contrast important concepts from the areas of mobility and international migration research

This book brings together ten original empirical works focusing on the influence of various types of spatial mobility – be it international or national– on partnership, family and work life. The contributions cover a range of important topics which focus on understanding how spatial mobility is related to familial relationships and life course transitions. The volume offers new insights by bringing together the state of the art in theoretical and empirical approaches from spatial mobility and international migration research. This includes, for example, studies that investigate the relationships between international migration and changing patterns of partnership choice, family formation and fertility. Complementing to this, this volume presents new empirical studies on job-related residential mobility and its impact on the relationship quality of couples, family life, and union dissolution. It also highlights the importance of research that looks at the reciprocal relationships between mobility and life course events such as young adults leaving the parental home in international migration context, re-arrangements of family life after divorce and spatial mobility of the elderly following life transitions.
