Women's Writing in Colombia

An Alternative History

Series: Breaking Feminist Waves

- Winner of the Montserrat Ordóñez Prize 2018
- Sheds light on understudied literary and non-literary texts by Colombian women through a series of close readings and analyses
- Reconsiders the place of feminism in contemporary Colombian history by examining how Colombian feminism emerged in response to the country's particular historical conditions and leftist politics
- Provides new perspectives on Latin American literature and culture by challenging dominant critical paradigms

Winner of the Montserrat Ordóñez Prize 2018 This book provides an original and exciting analysis of Colombian women's writing and its relationship to feminist history from the 1970s to the present. In a period in which questions surrounding women and gender are often sidelined in the academic arena, it argues that feminism has been an important and intrinsic part of contemporary Colombian history. Focusing on understudied literary and non-literary texts written by Colombian women, it traces the particularities of Colombian feminism, showing how it has been closely entwined with left-wing politics and the country's history of violence. This book therefore rethinks the place of feminism in Latin American history and its relationship to feminisms elsewhere, challenging many of the predominant critical paradigms used to understand Latin American literature and culture.
