Collaborative Research in Economics

The Wisdom of Working Together

- Provides expert advice applicable to collaborative researchers in all fields of academia
- Includes contributions from Nobel Prize winners Paul A. Samuelson and Vernon L. Smith
- Offers perspectives from each of economics' major sub-disciplines
- Combines anecdotal and empirical evidence

This collection gathers some of the greatest minds in economics to discuss their experiences of collaborative research and publication. Nobel Prize winners and other eminent scholars from a representative sample of economics' major sub-disciplines share how and why they came to work primarily in partnerships or on their own, whether naturally or by necessity. The contributions include discussions of personal experiences, statistical analyses, different levels of investment, and how the digital age has changed researcher interactions. As budget cuts and resource consolidation make working together vital in ever more fields of academia, this book offers valuable advice to help young and seasoned scholars alike identify the right co-author(s).
