Contrastive Linguistics

- Makes systematic contrasts between English, Chinese, German, and other languages at phonological, lexical, grammatical, textual, and pragmatic levels, using both Western and Chinese sources
- Focuses on useful insights contrastive analysis provides into real-world problems in various fields of linguistic study and practice
- Written in a plain and direct style for readers who have little knowledge of linguistics but who are engaged / interested in studies or activities which involve the use of a second language

This book serves as an introduction to contrastive linguistics - the synchronic study of two or more languages, with the aim of discovering their differences and similarities, especially the former, and applying these discoveries to related areas of language study and practice. It discusses the principles and methods, and contrasts English, Chinese, German, and other languages at phonological, lexical, grammatical, textual, and pragmatic levels, focusing more on the useful insights contrastive analysis provides into real-world problems in fields such as applied linguistics, translation and translation studies, English or Chinese as a foreign language, and communication than on the discipline itself.
